Elsa and Anna are sisters. Elsa has magical powers—she can create ice and snow! One night, she accidentally hits Anna with an icy blast. Their parents, the king and queen, are worried.

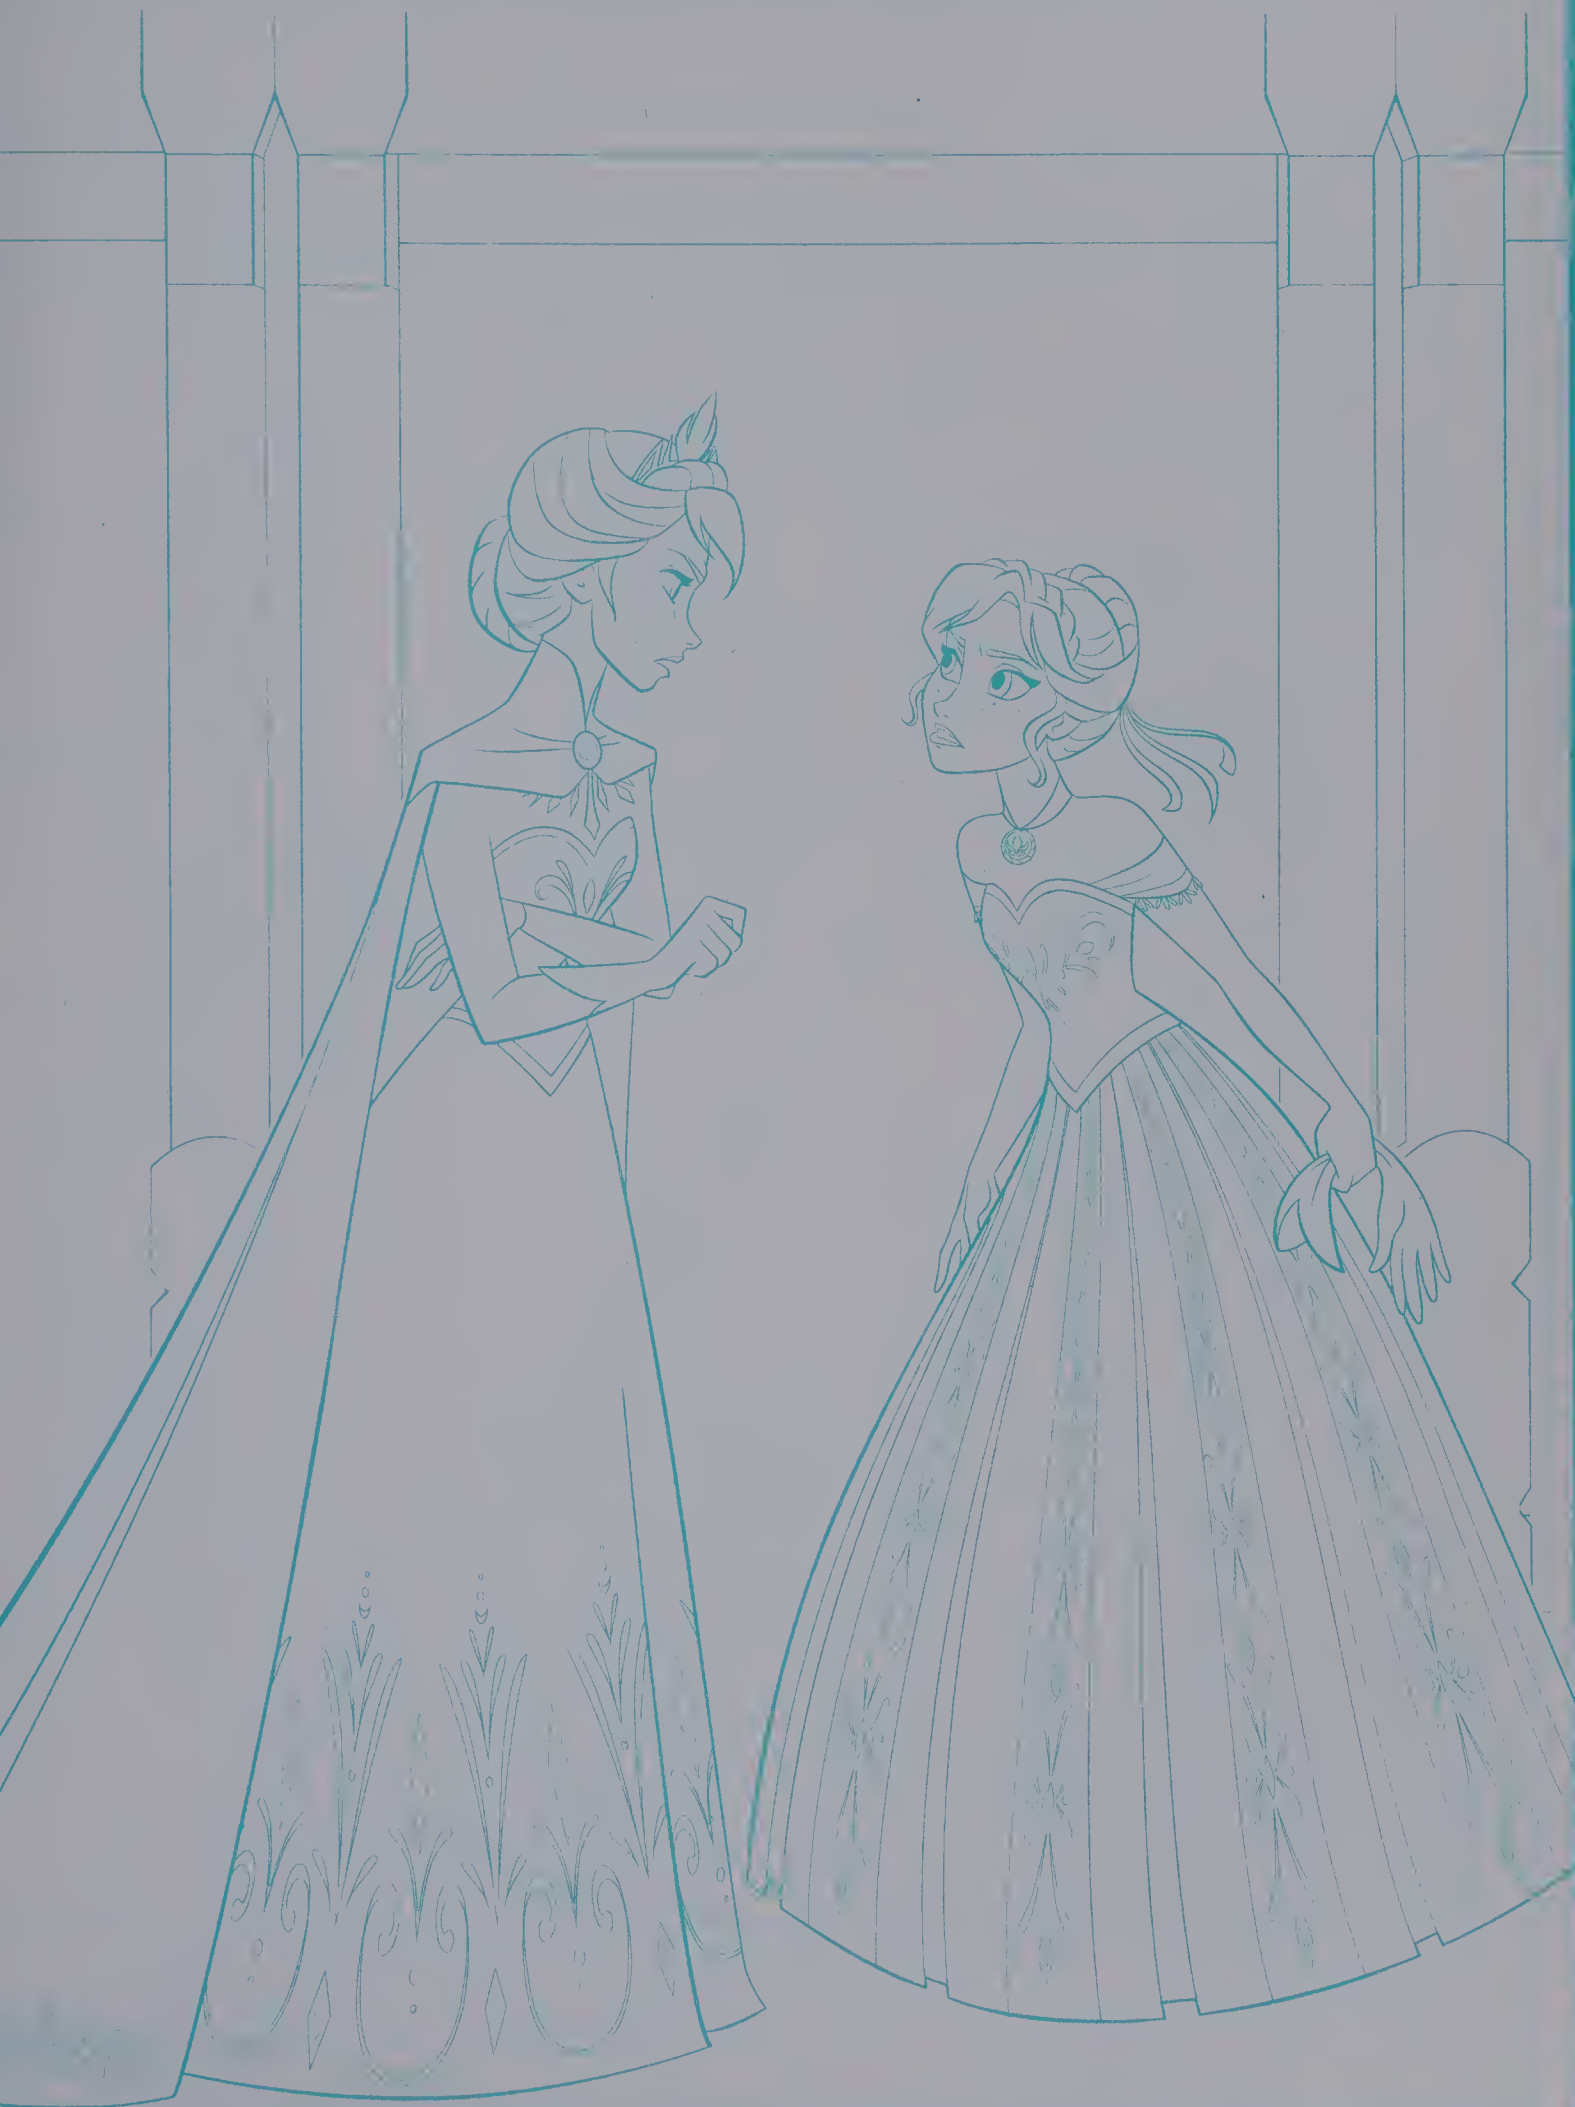

Elsa decides to stay away from Anna, to keep her little sister safe.
The sisters grow apart as they get older.

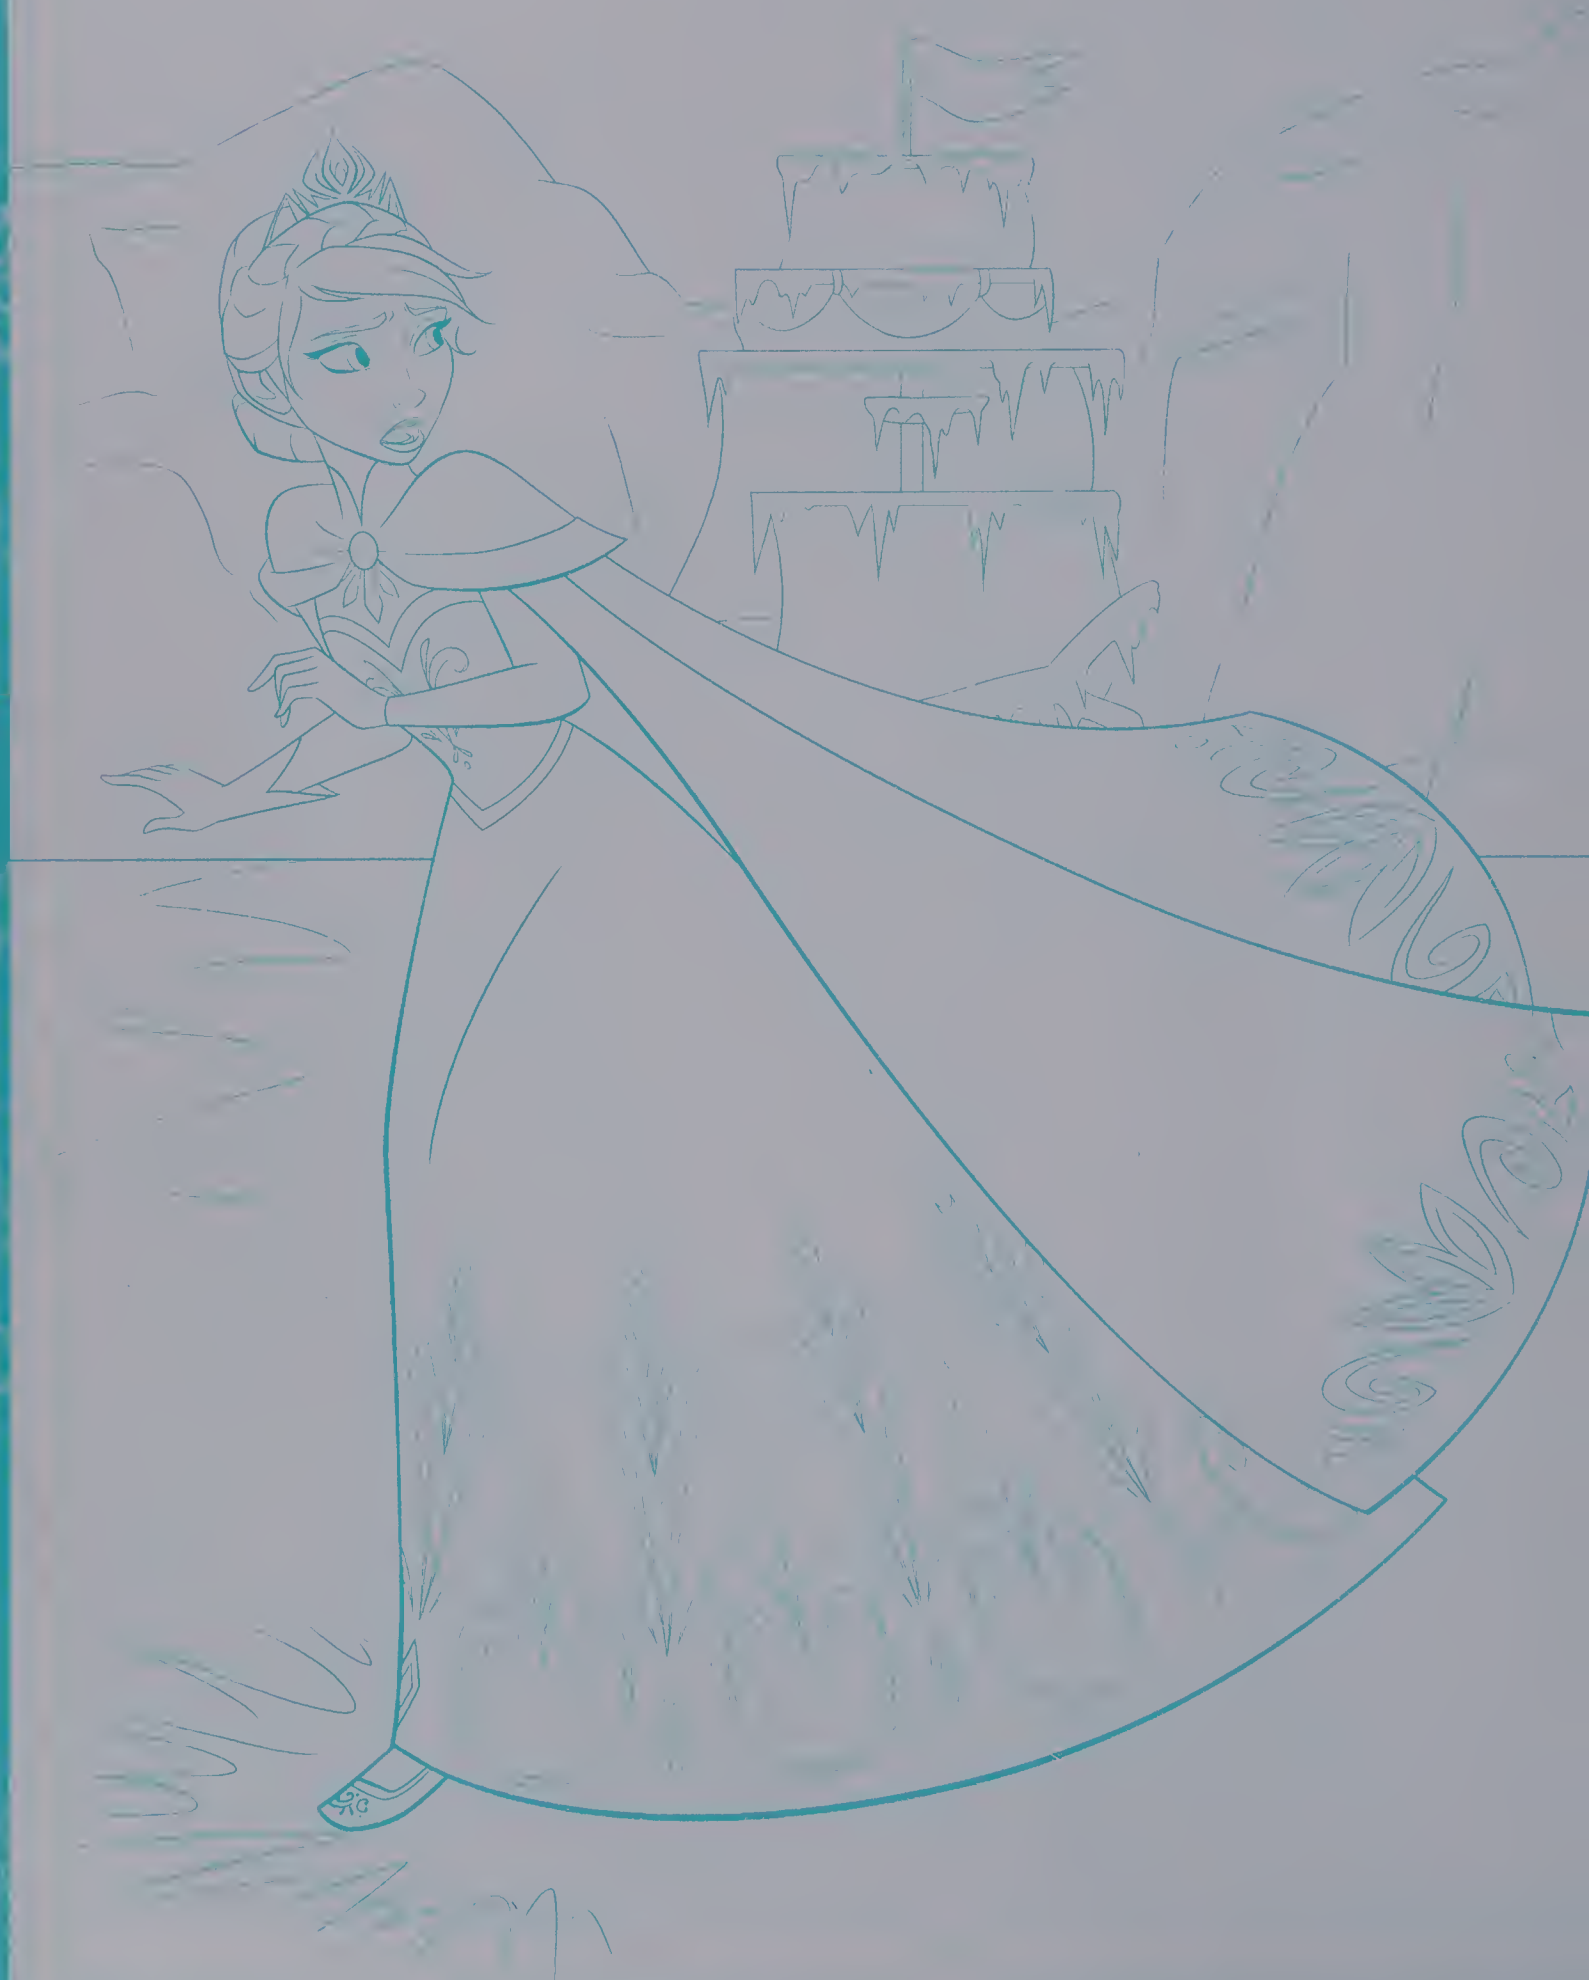

When the sisters are grown up, Princess Anna meets Prince Hans at Elsa's coronation. They quickly fall in love and get engaged.

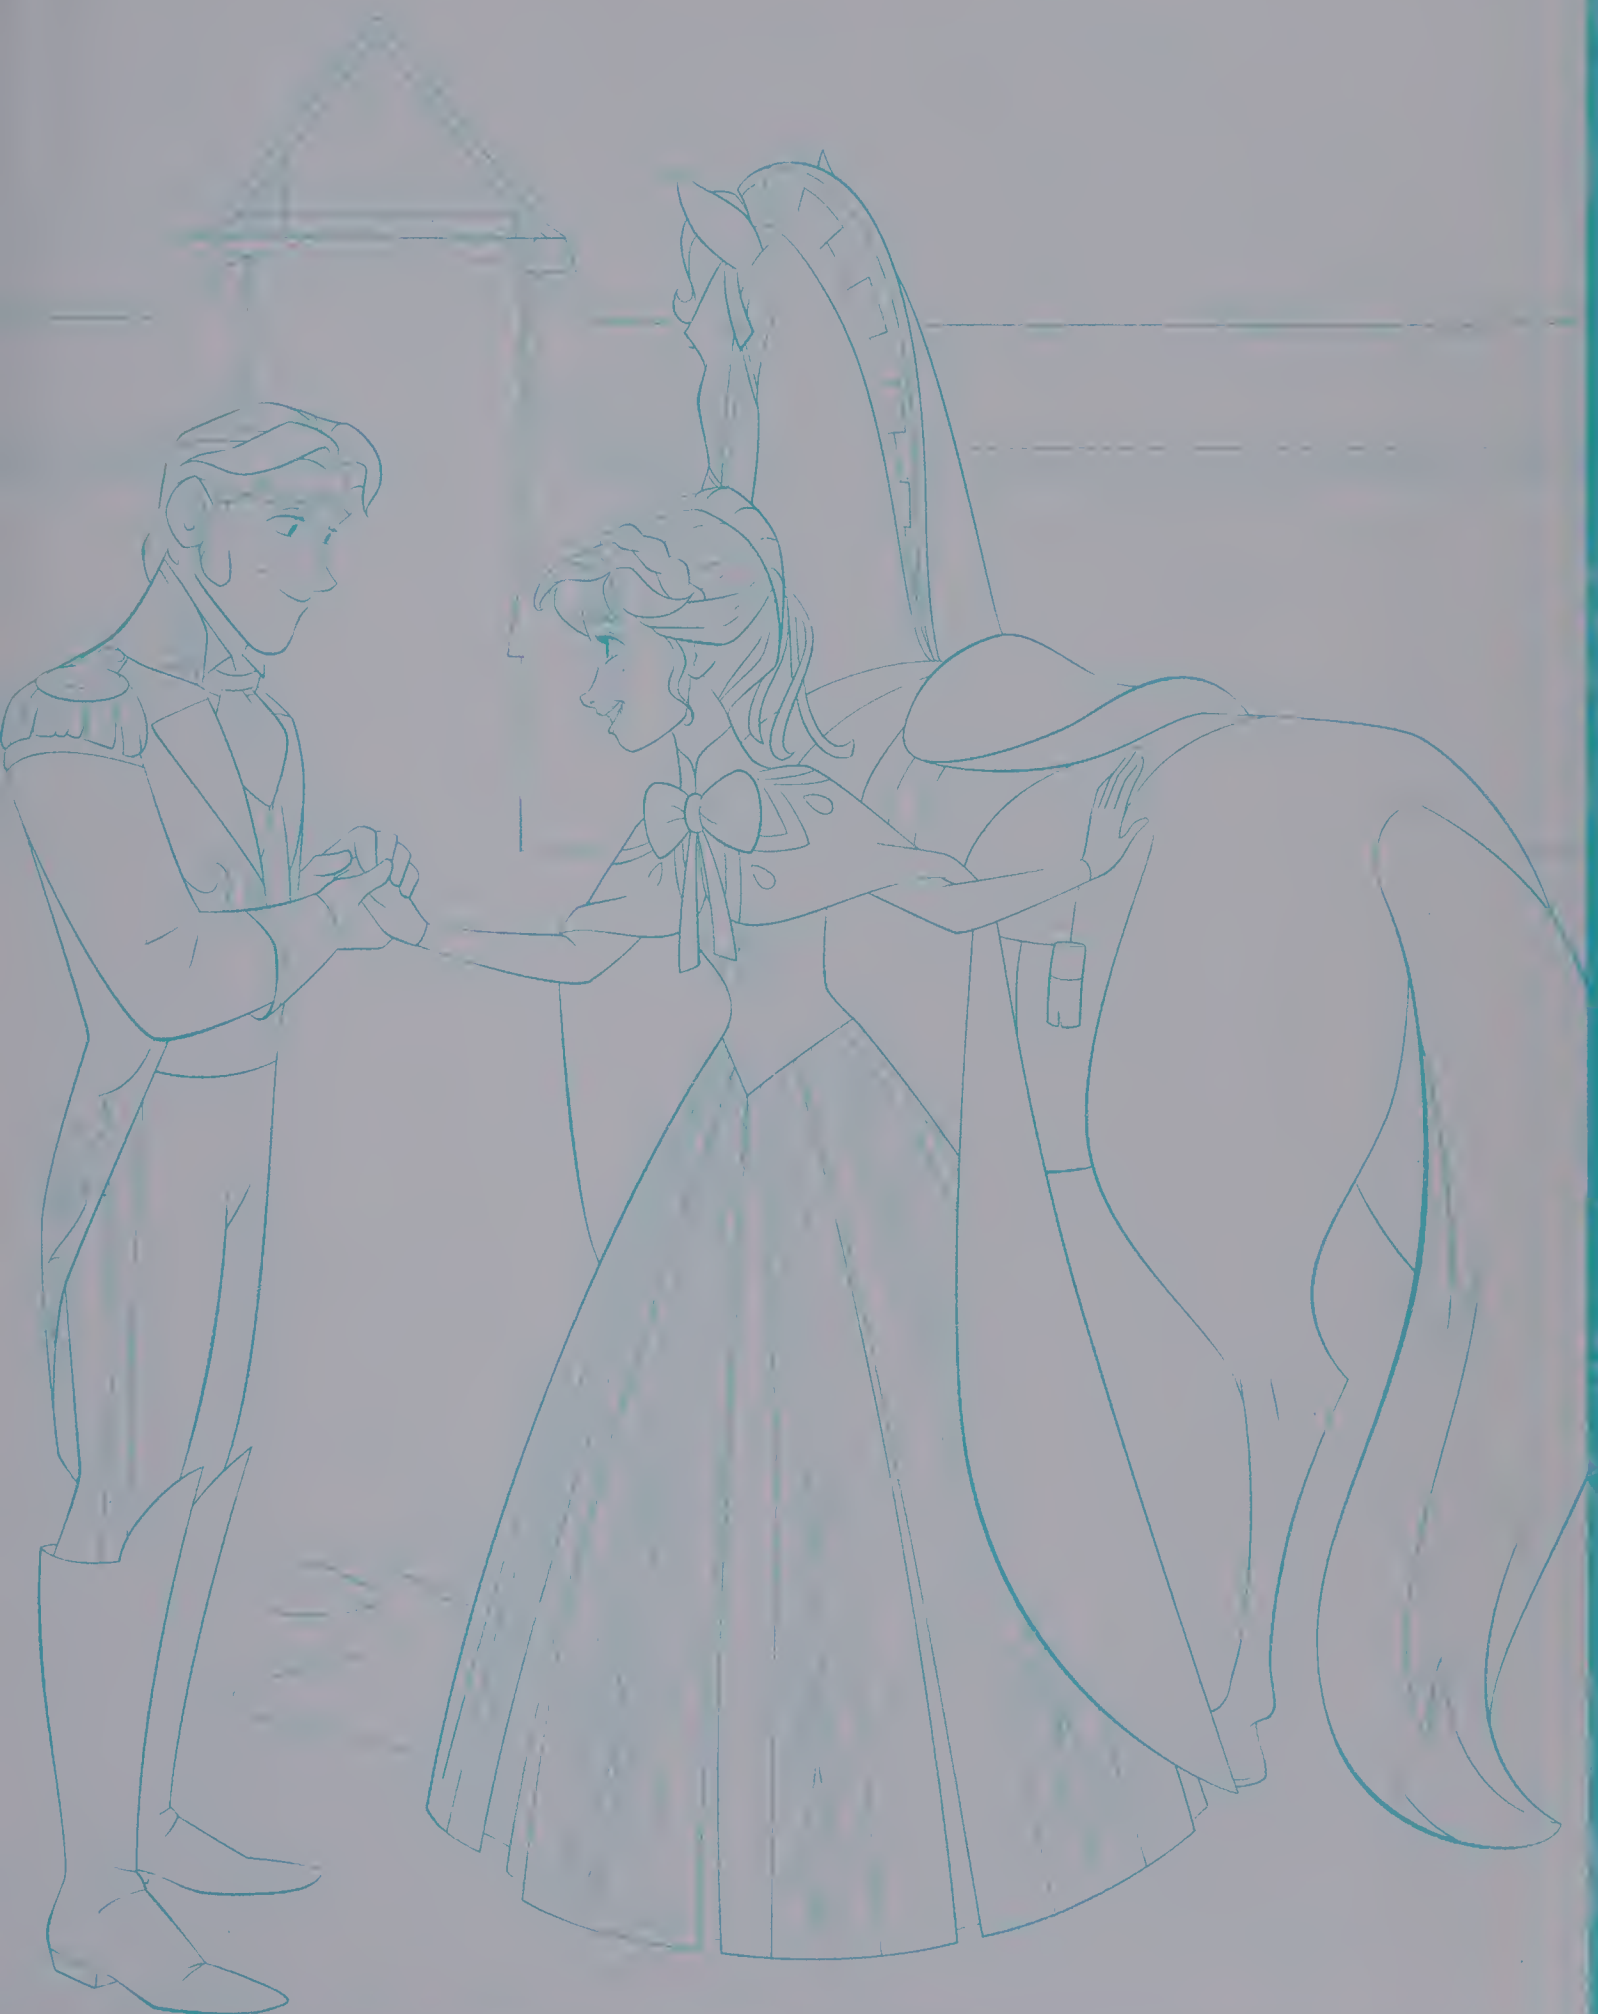

But Queen Elsa doesn't approve of Anna's engagement to Hans.
The sisters argue, and Elsa gets upset.

Elsa accidentally blasts ice in front of everyone. She runs away from Arendelle, and as she leaves, snow and ice cover the ground.

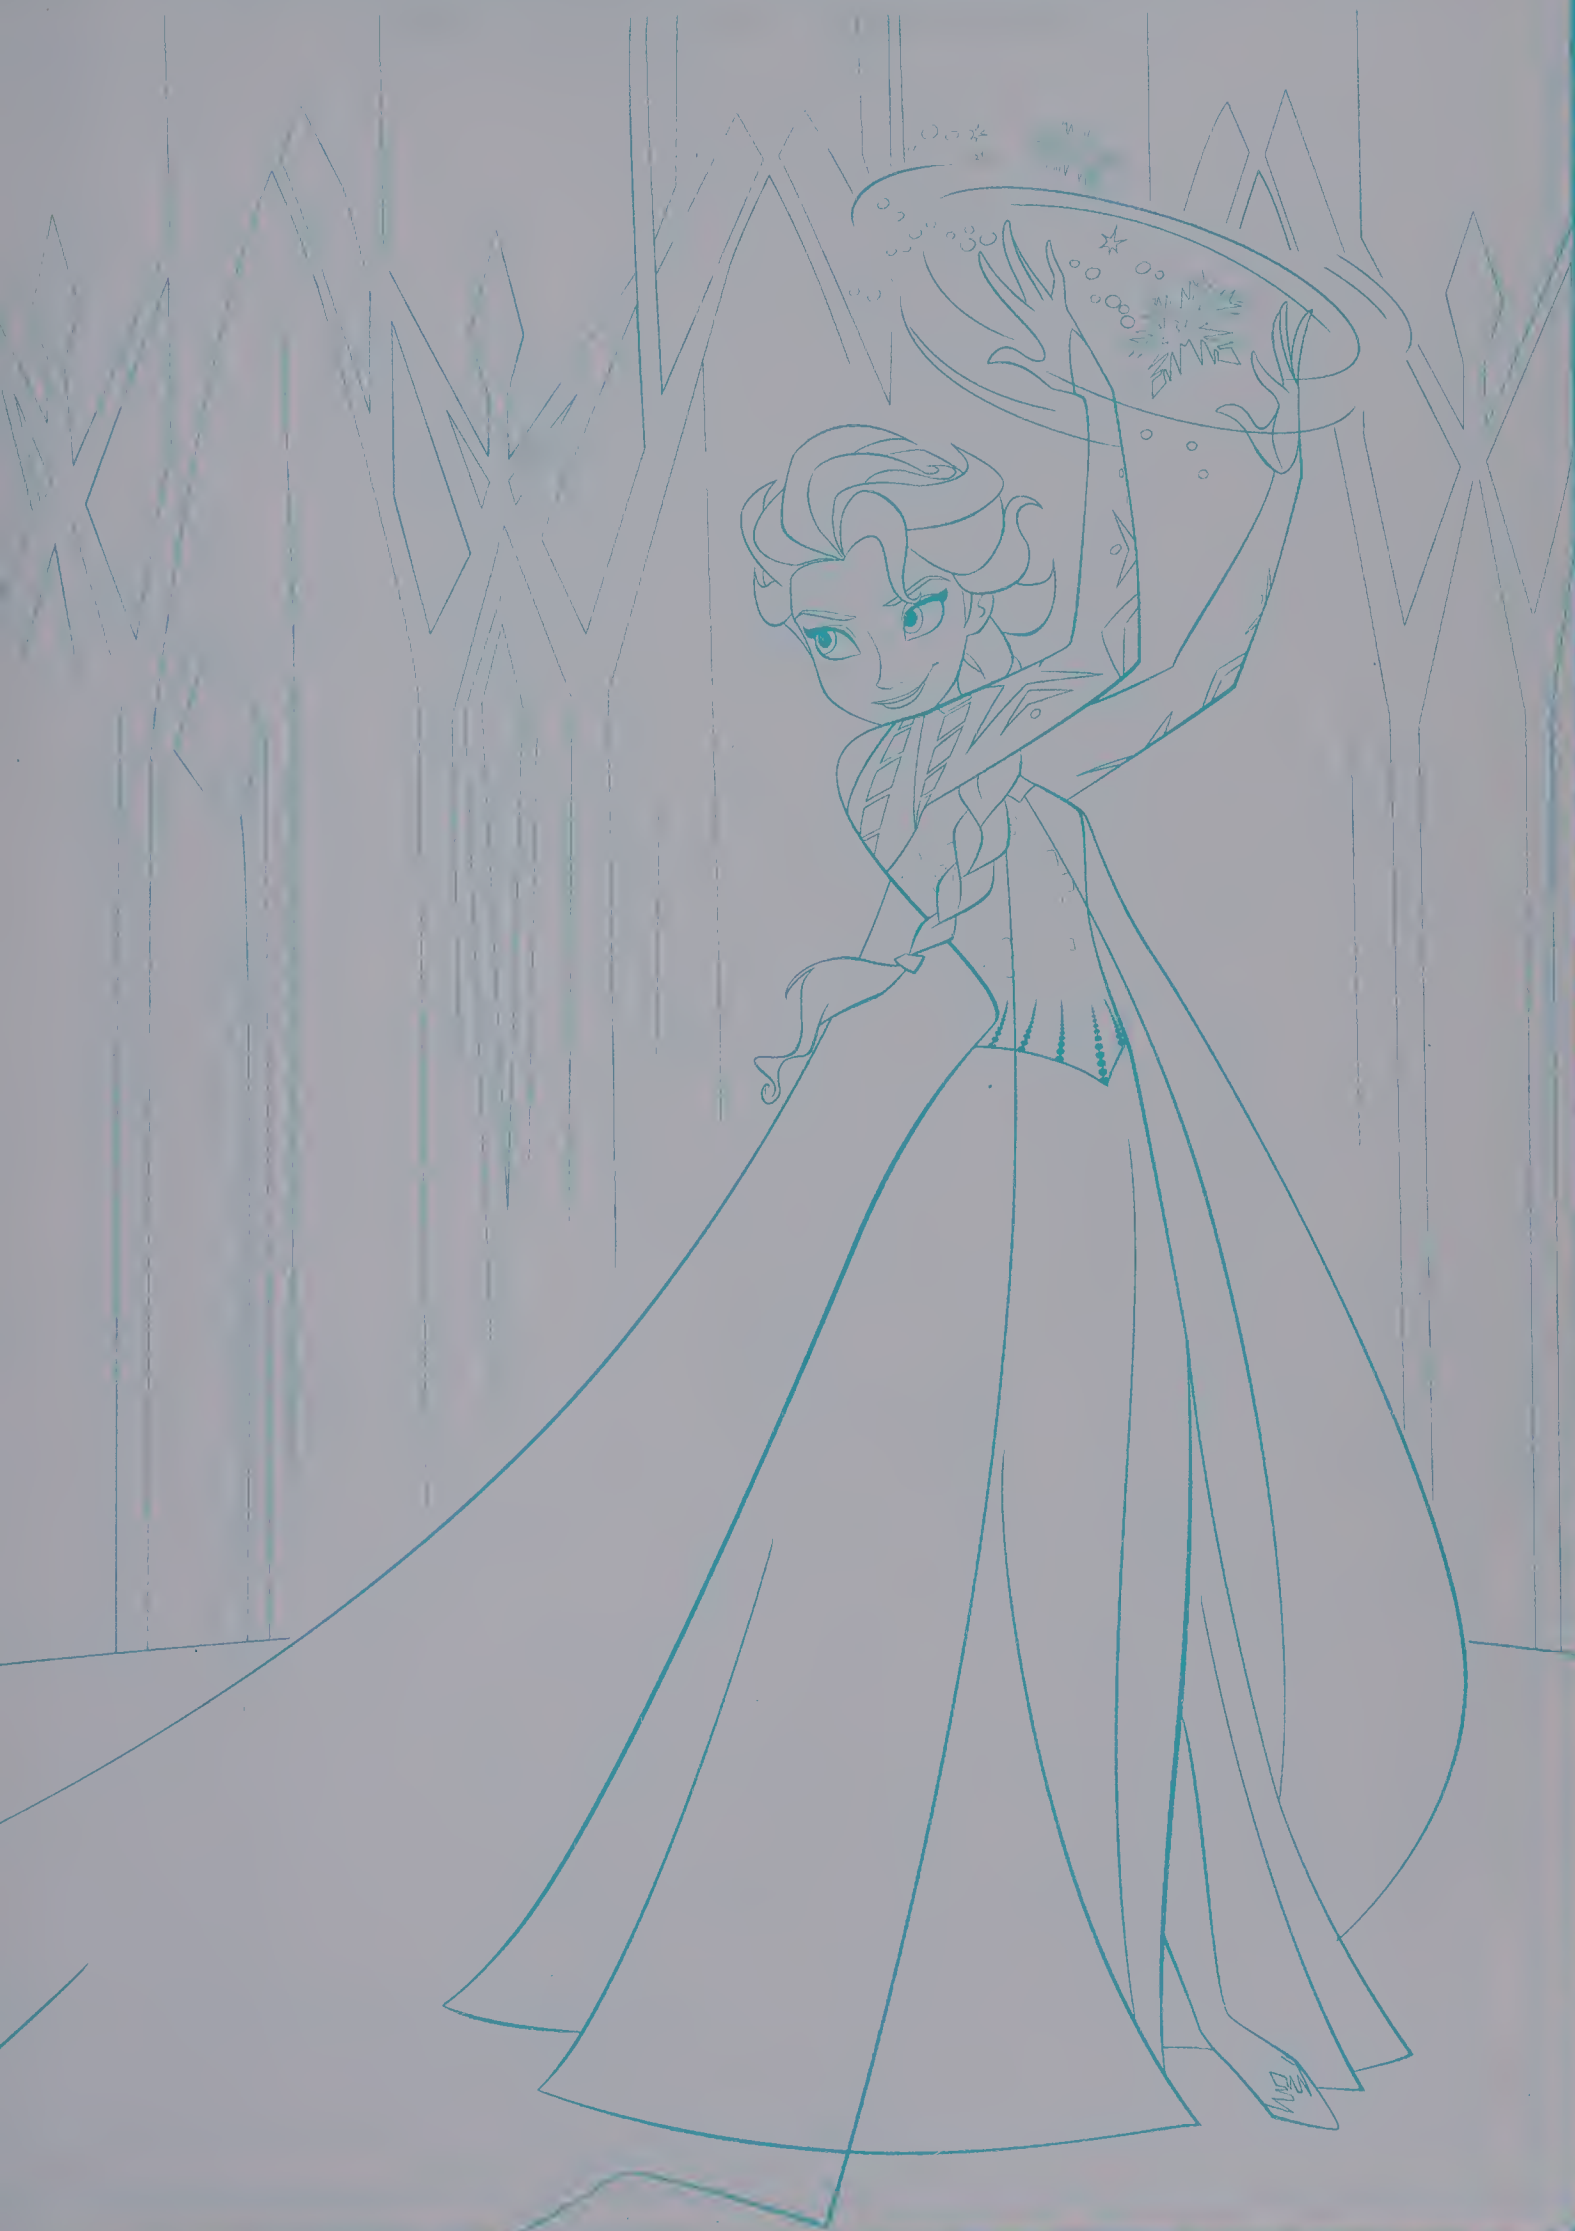

Anna decides to go after Elsa. She asks Prince Hans to take care of the kingdom while she is away.

Once she is alone, Elsa is finally free to use her powers.
She builds a stunning ice palace.

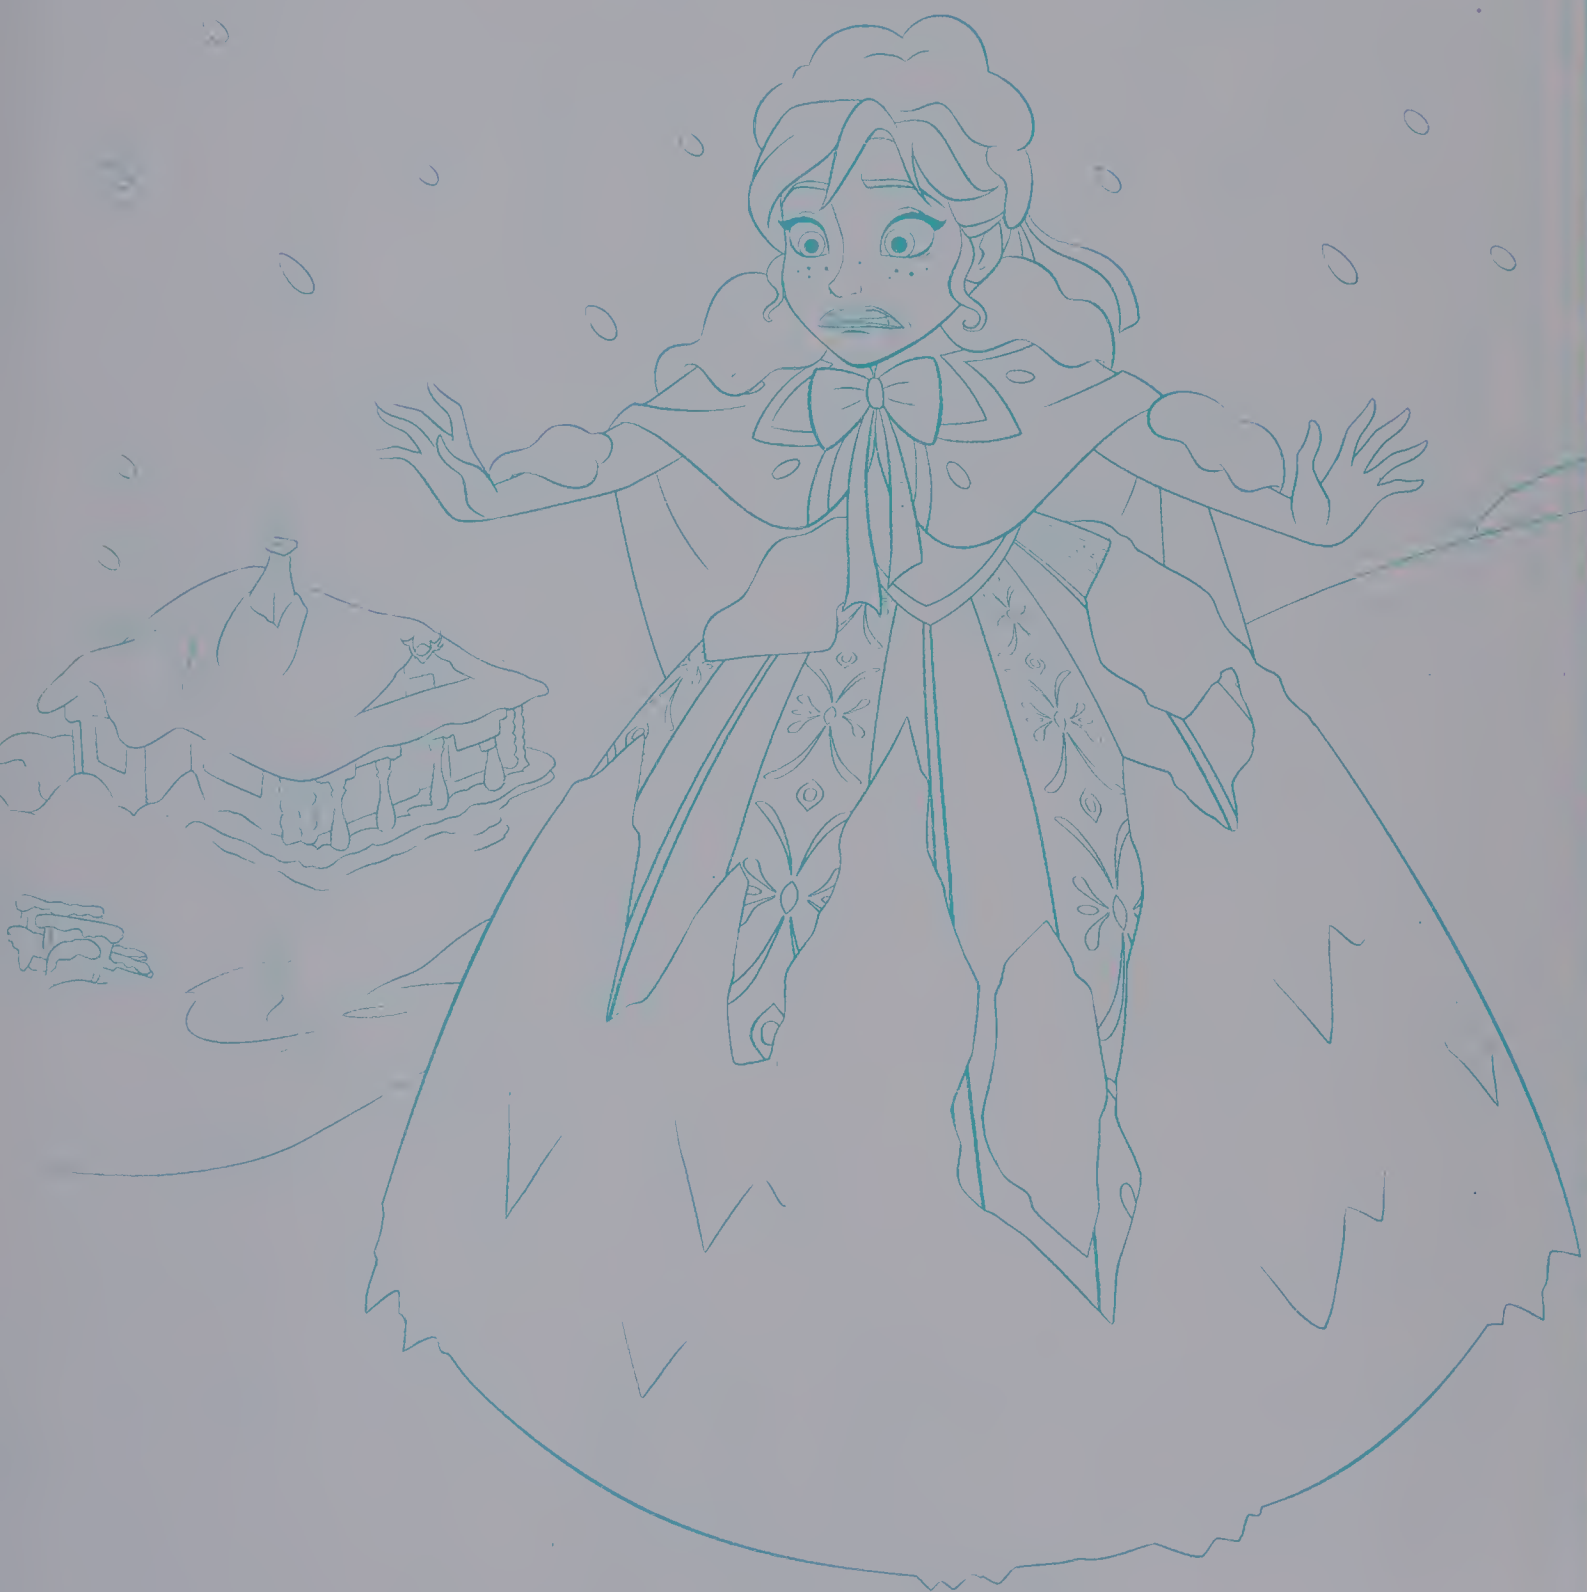

Elsa becomes the Snow Queen! She loves to use her icy powers.

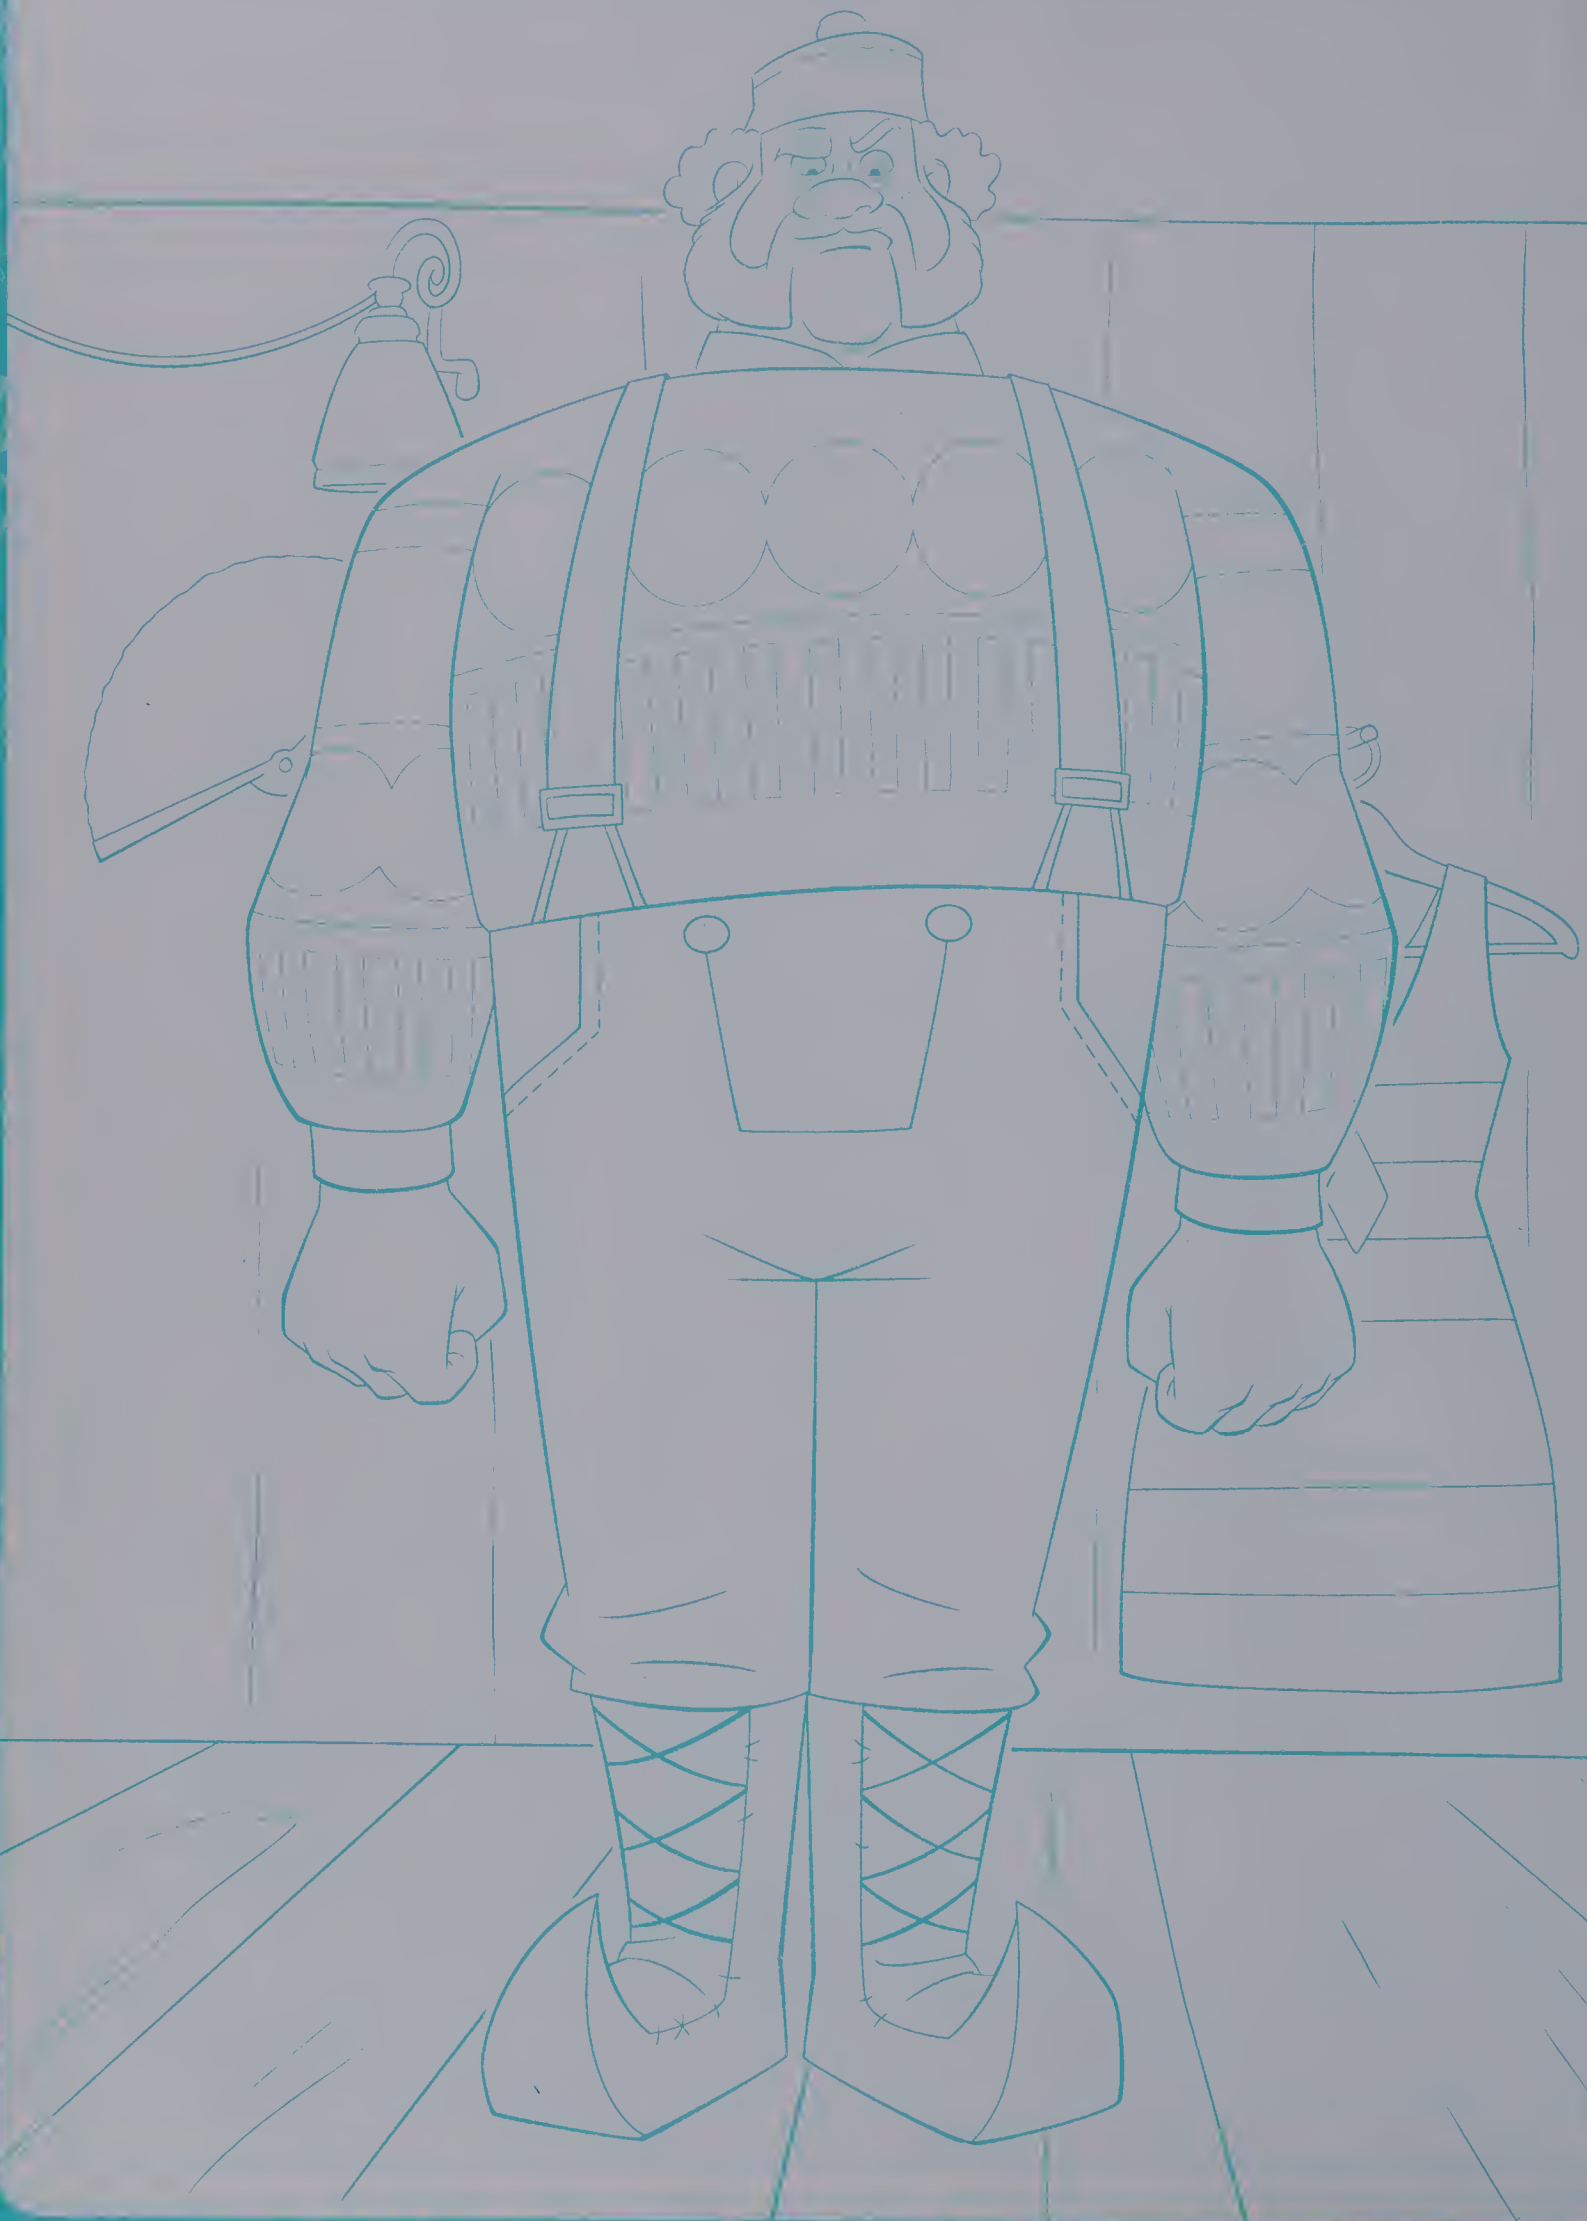

Princess Anna rides her horse through the winter storm in the mountains, in search of her sister.

Anna is thrown from her horse and lands in the snow.
Luckily, she finds shelter in a remote store.

Oaken is the owner of the store, and he sells supplies to travelers.

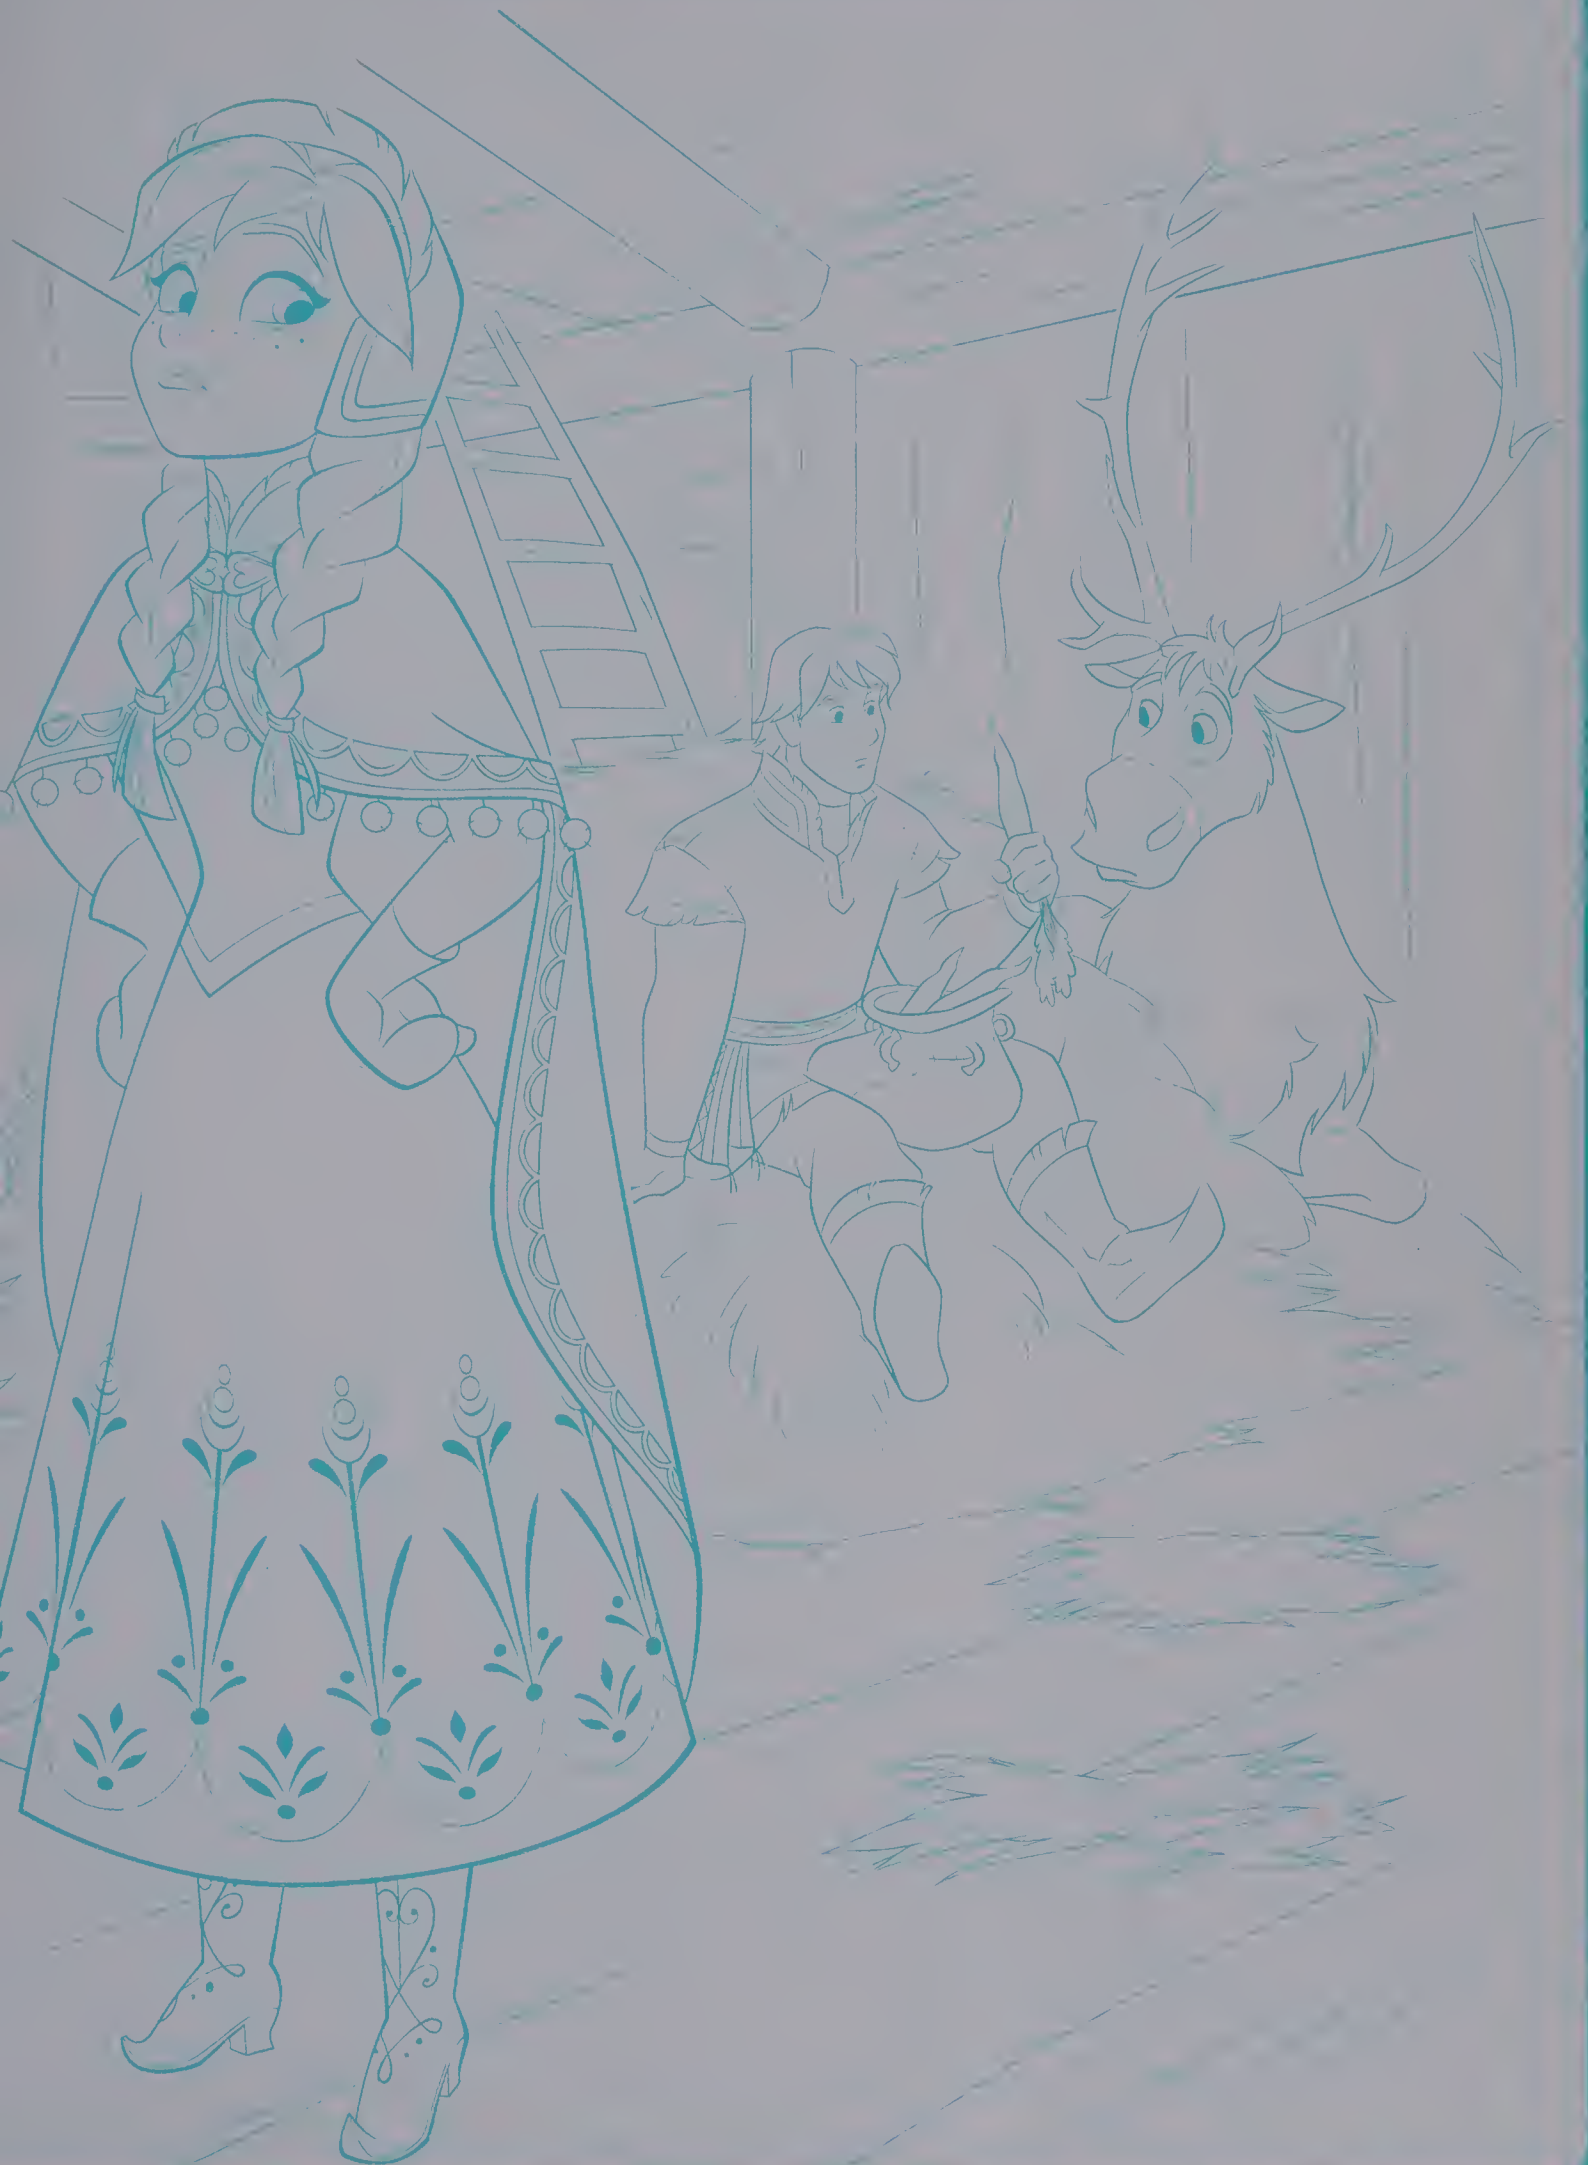

Inside the small store, Anna meets a snow-covered man named Kristoff. He is not happy about the winter storm!

Kristoff's best friend is a reindeer named Sven.

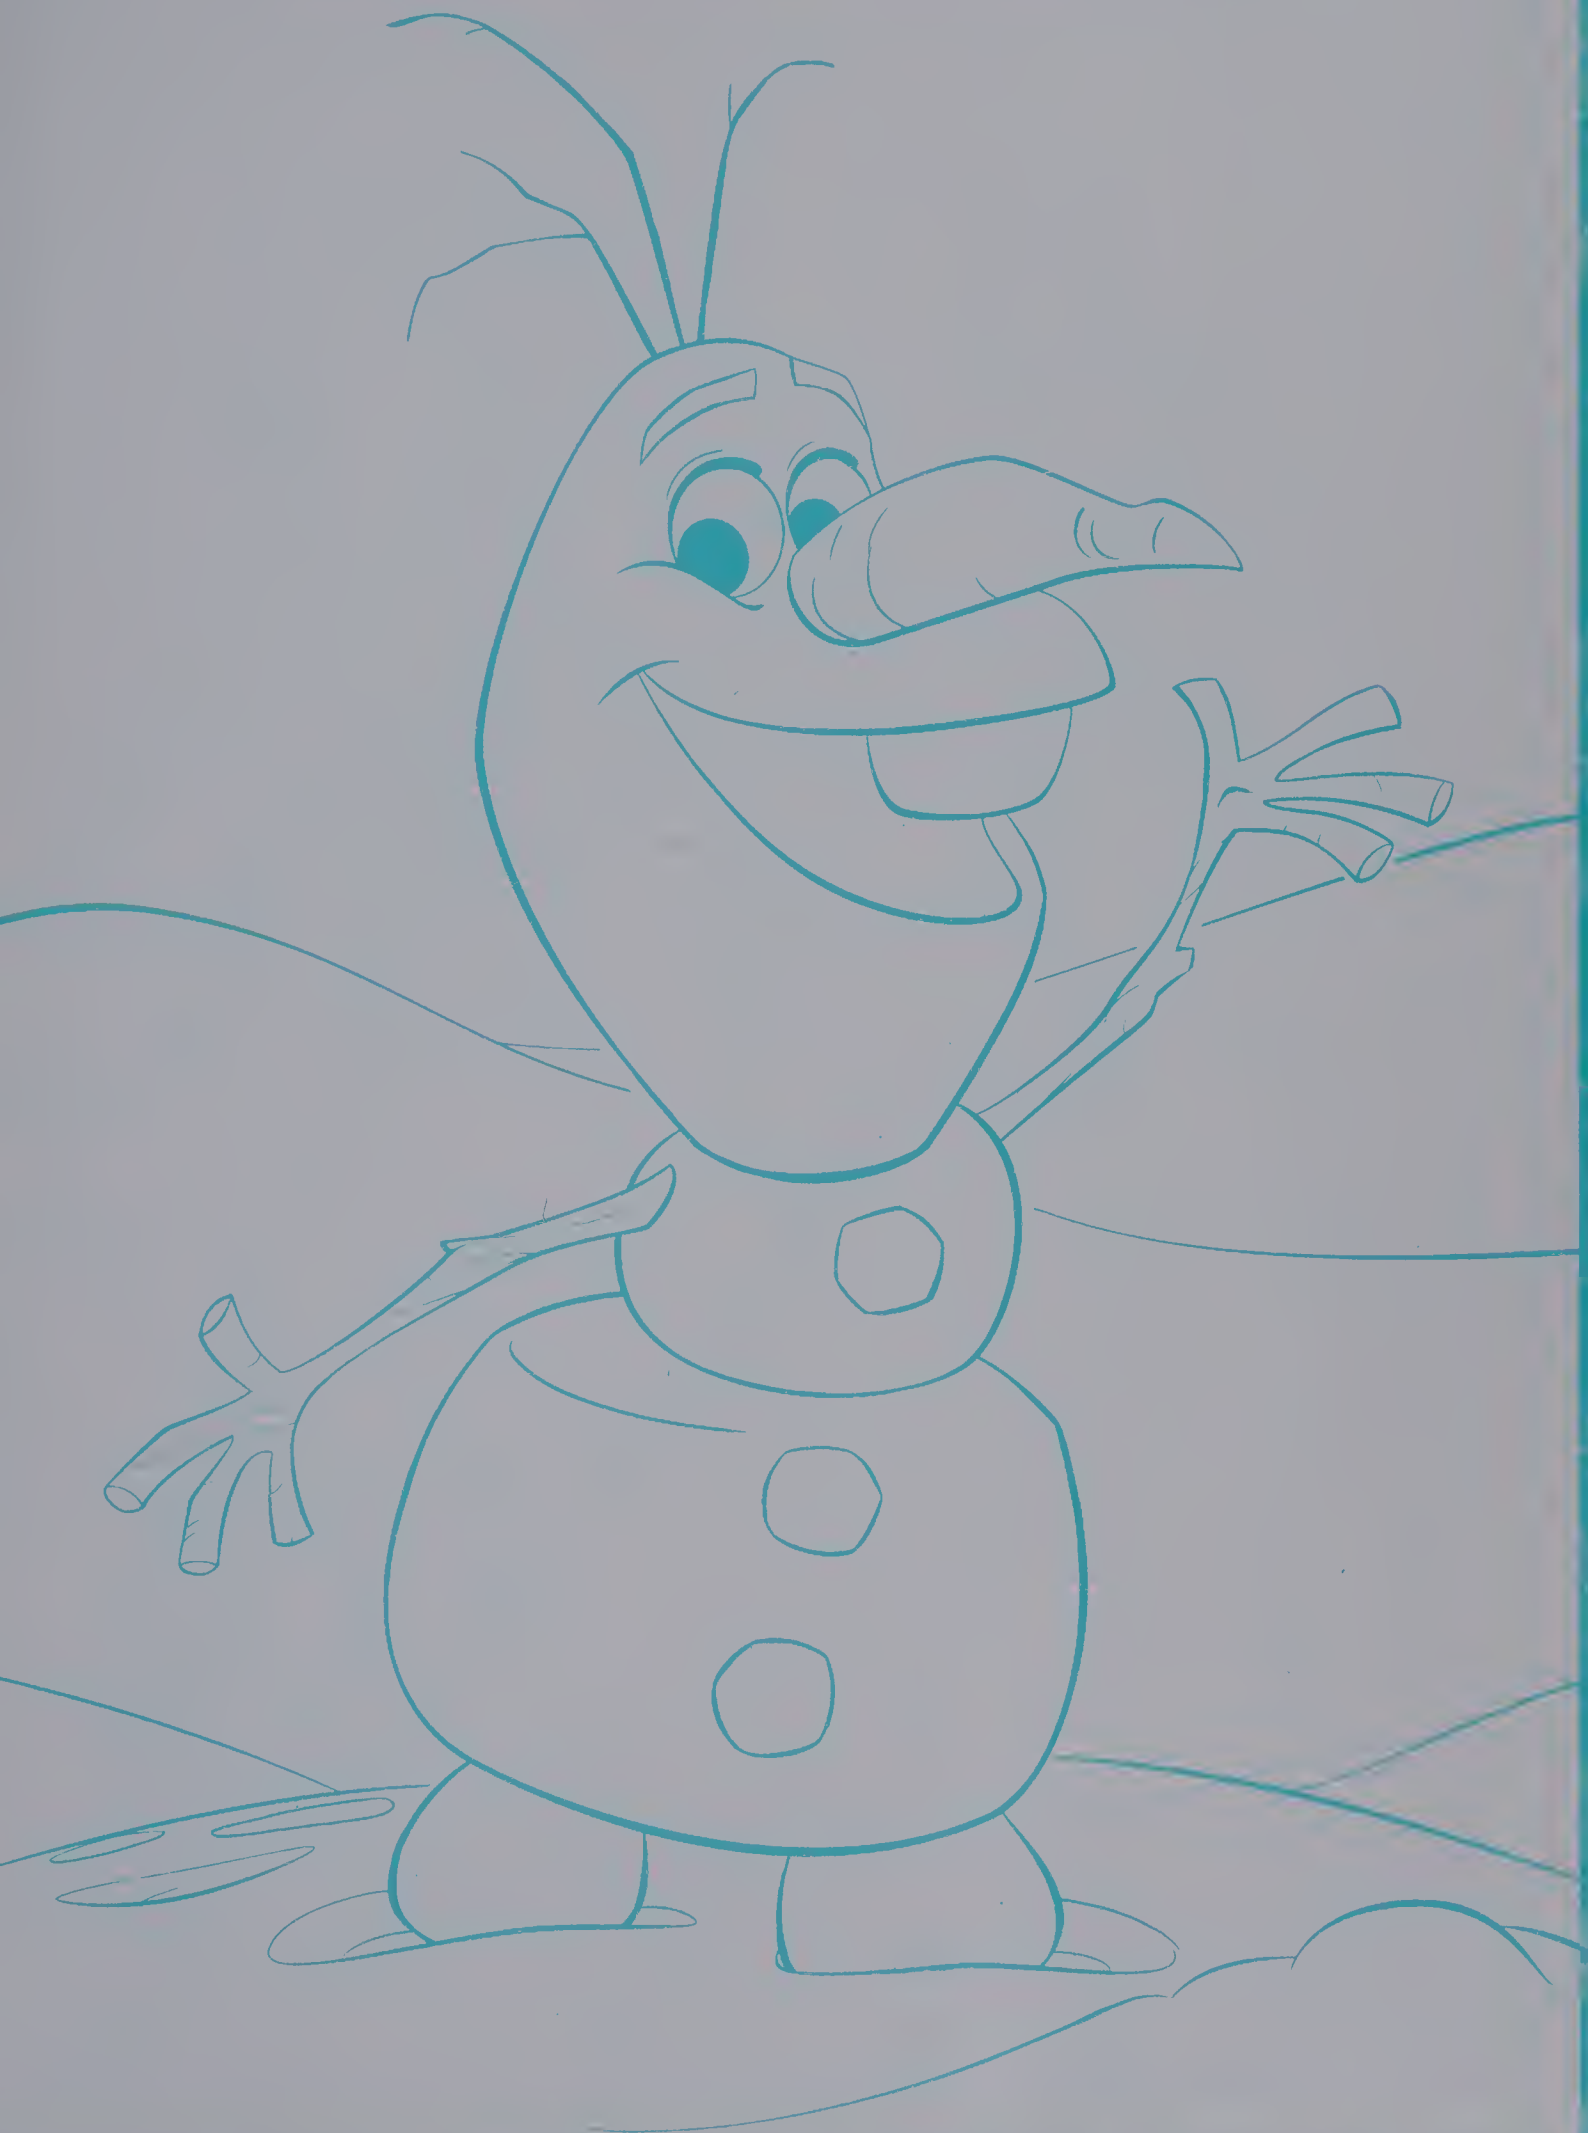

Anna asks Kristoff to help her find Elsa.
To persuade him, she gives Sven carrots.

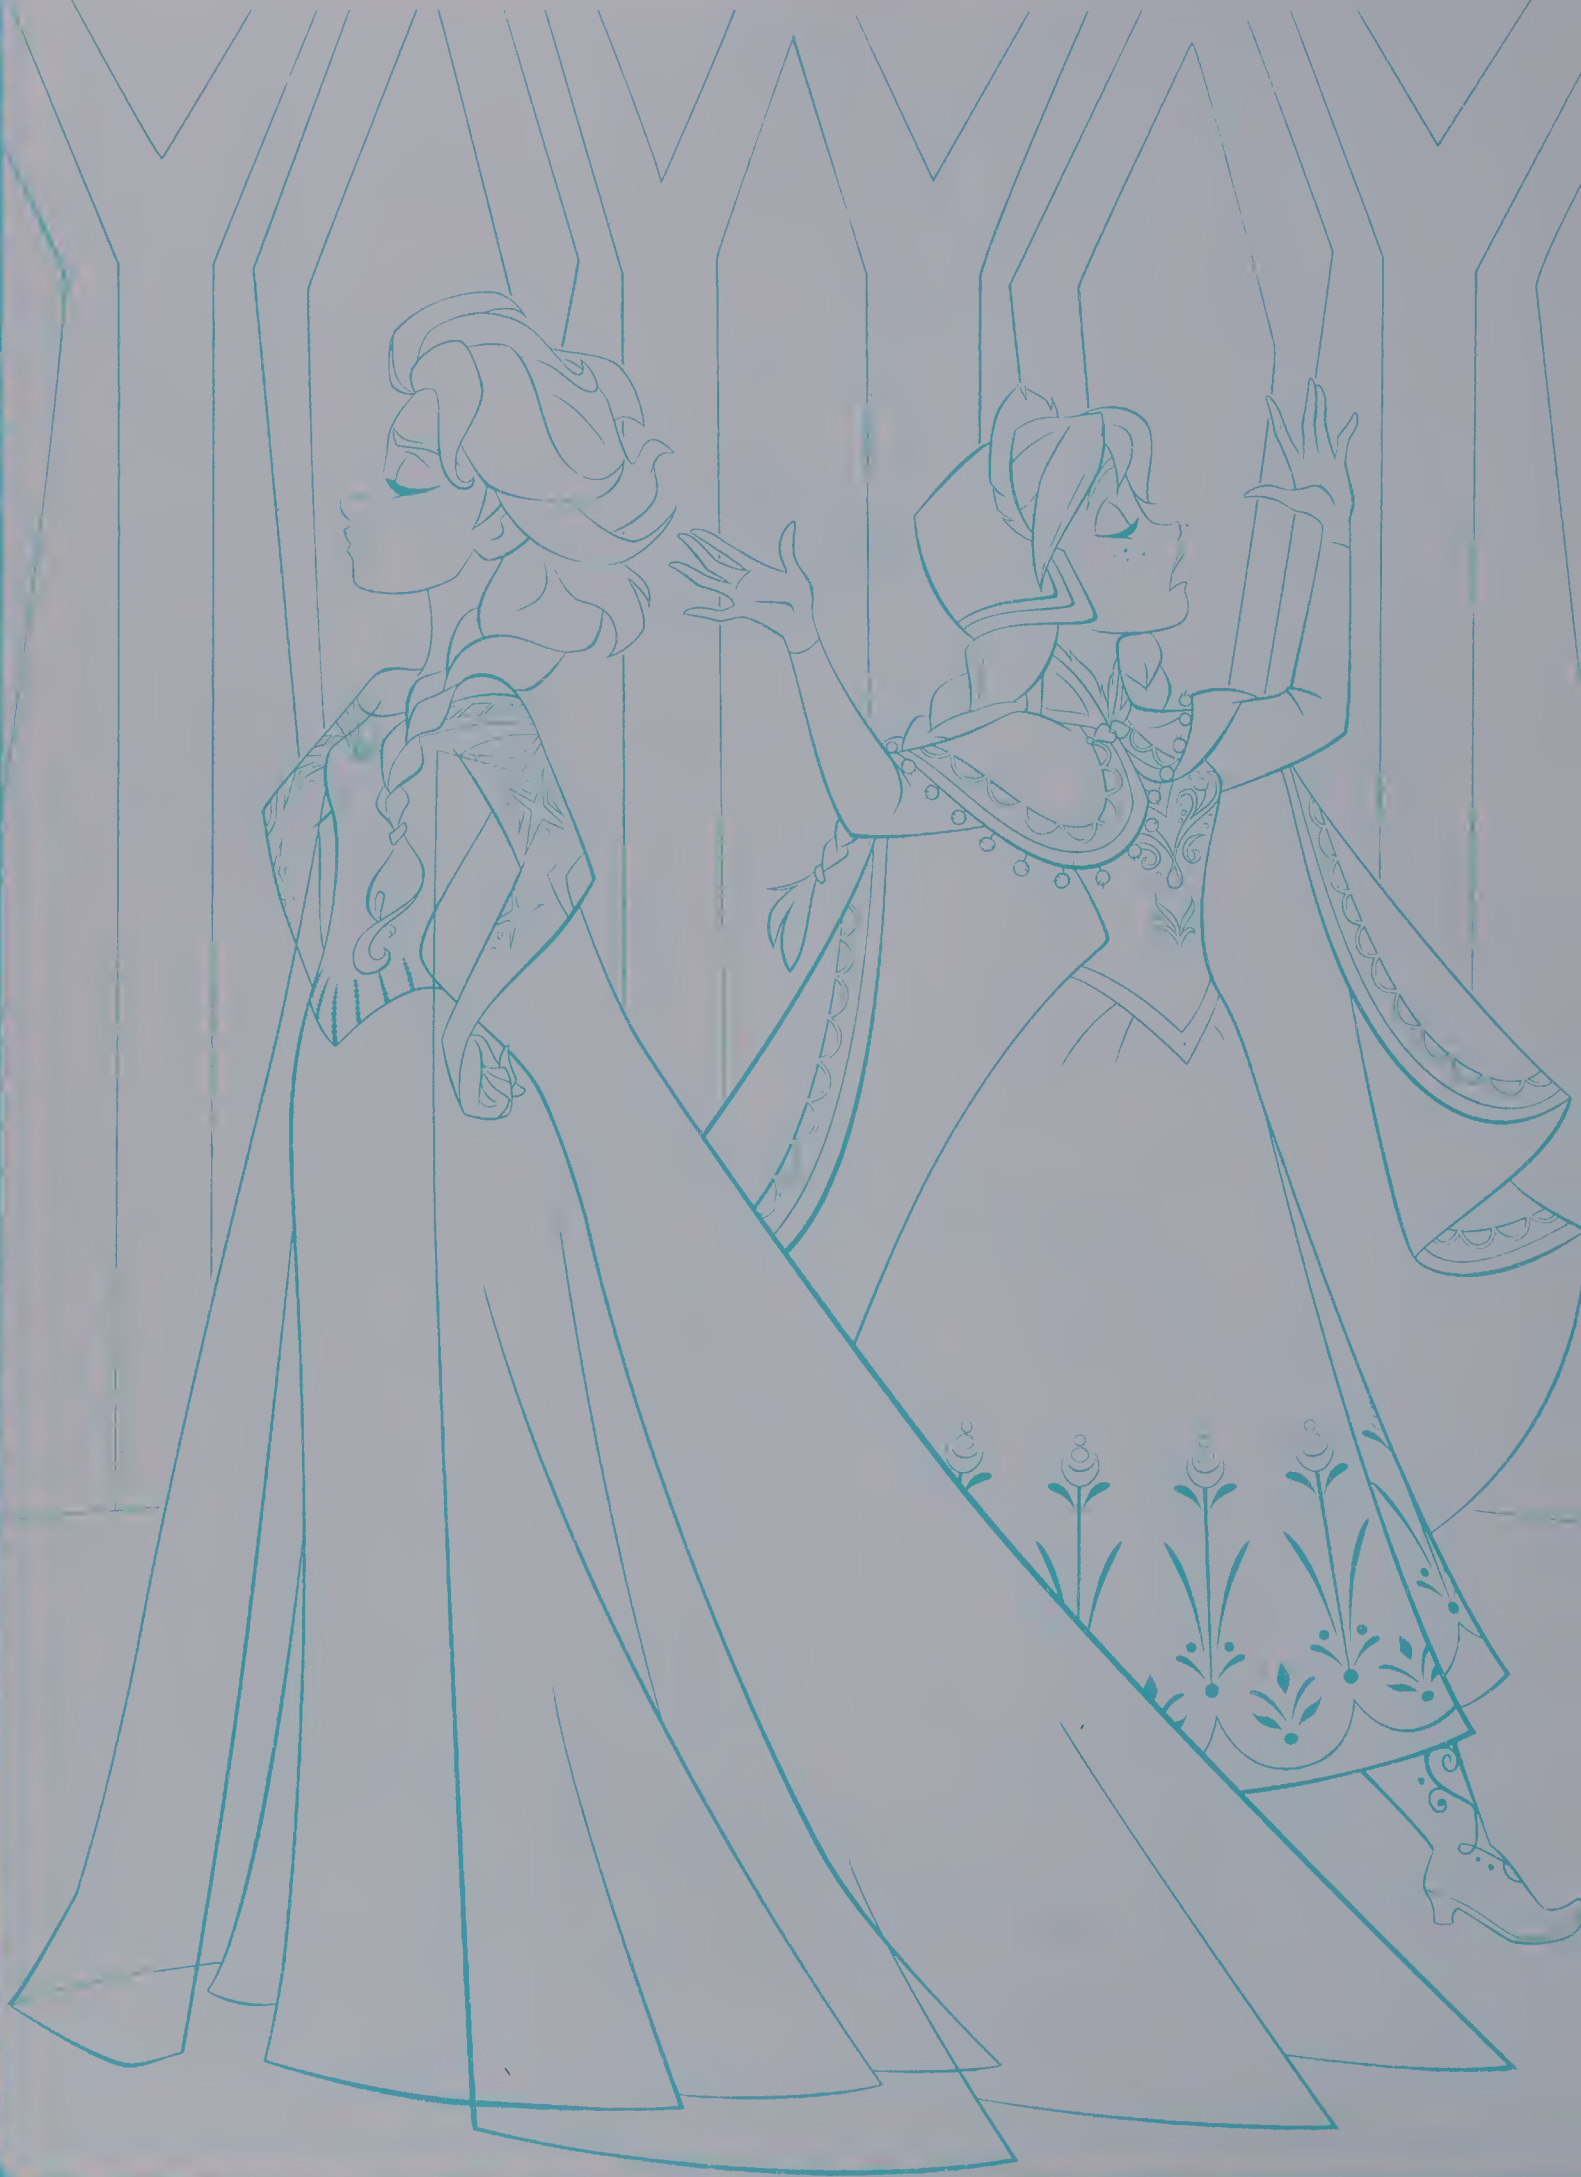

Anna, Kristoff, and Sven discover Elsa's icy wonderland and a walking, talking snowman named Olaf!

Olaf is a magical snowman who likes warm hugs.
He can show them the way to Elsa's ice palace!

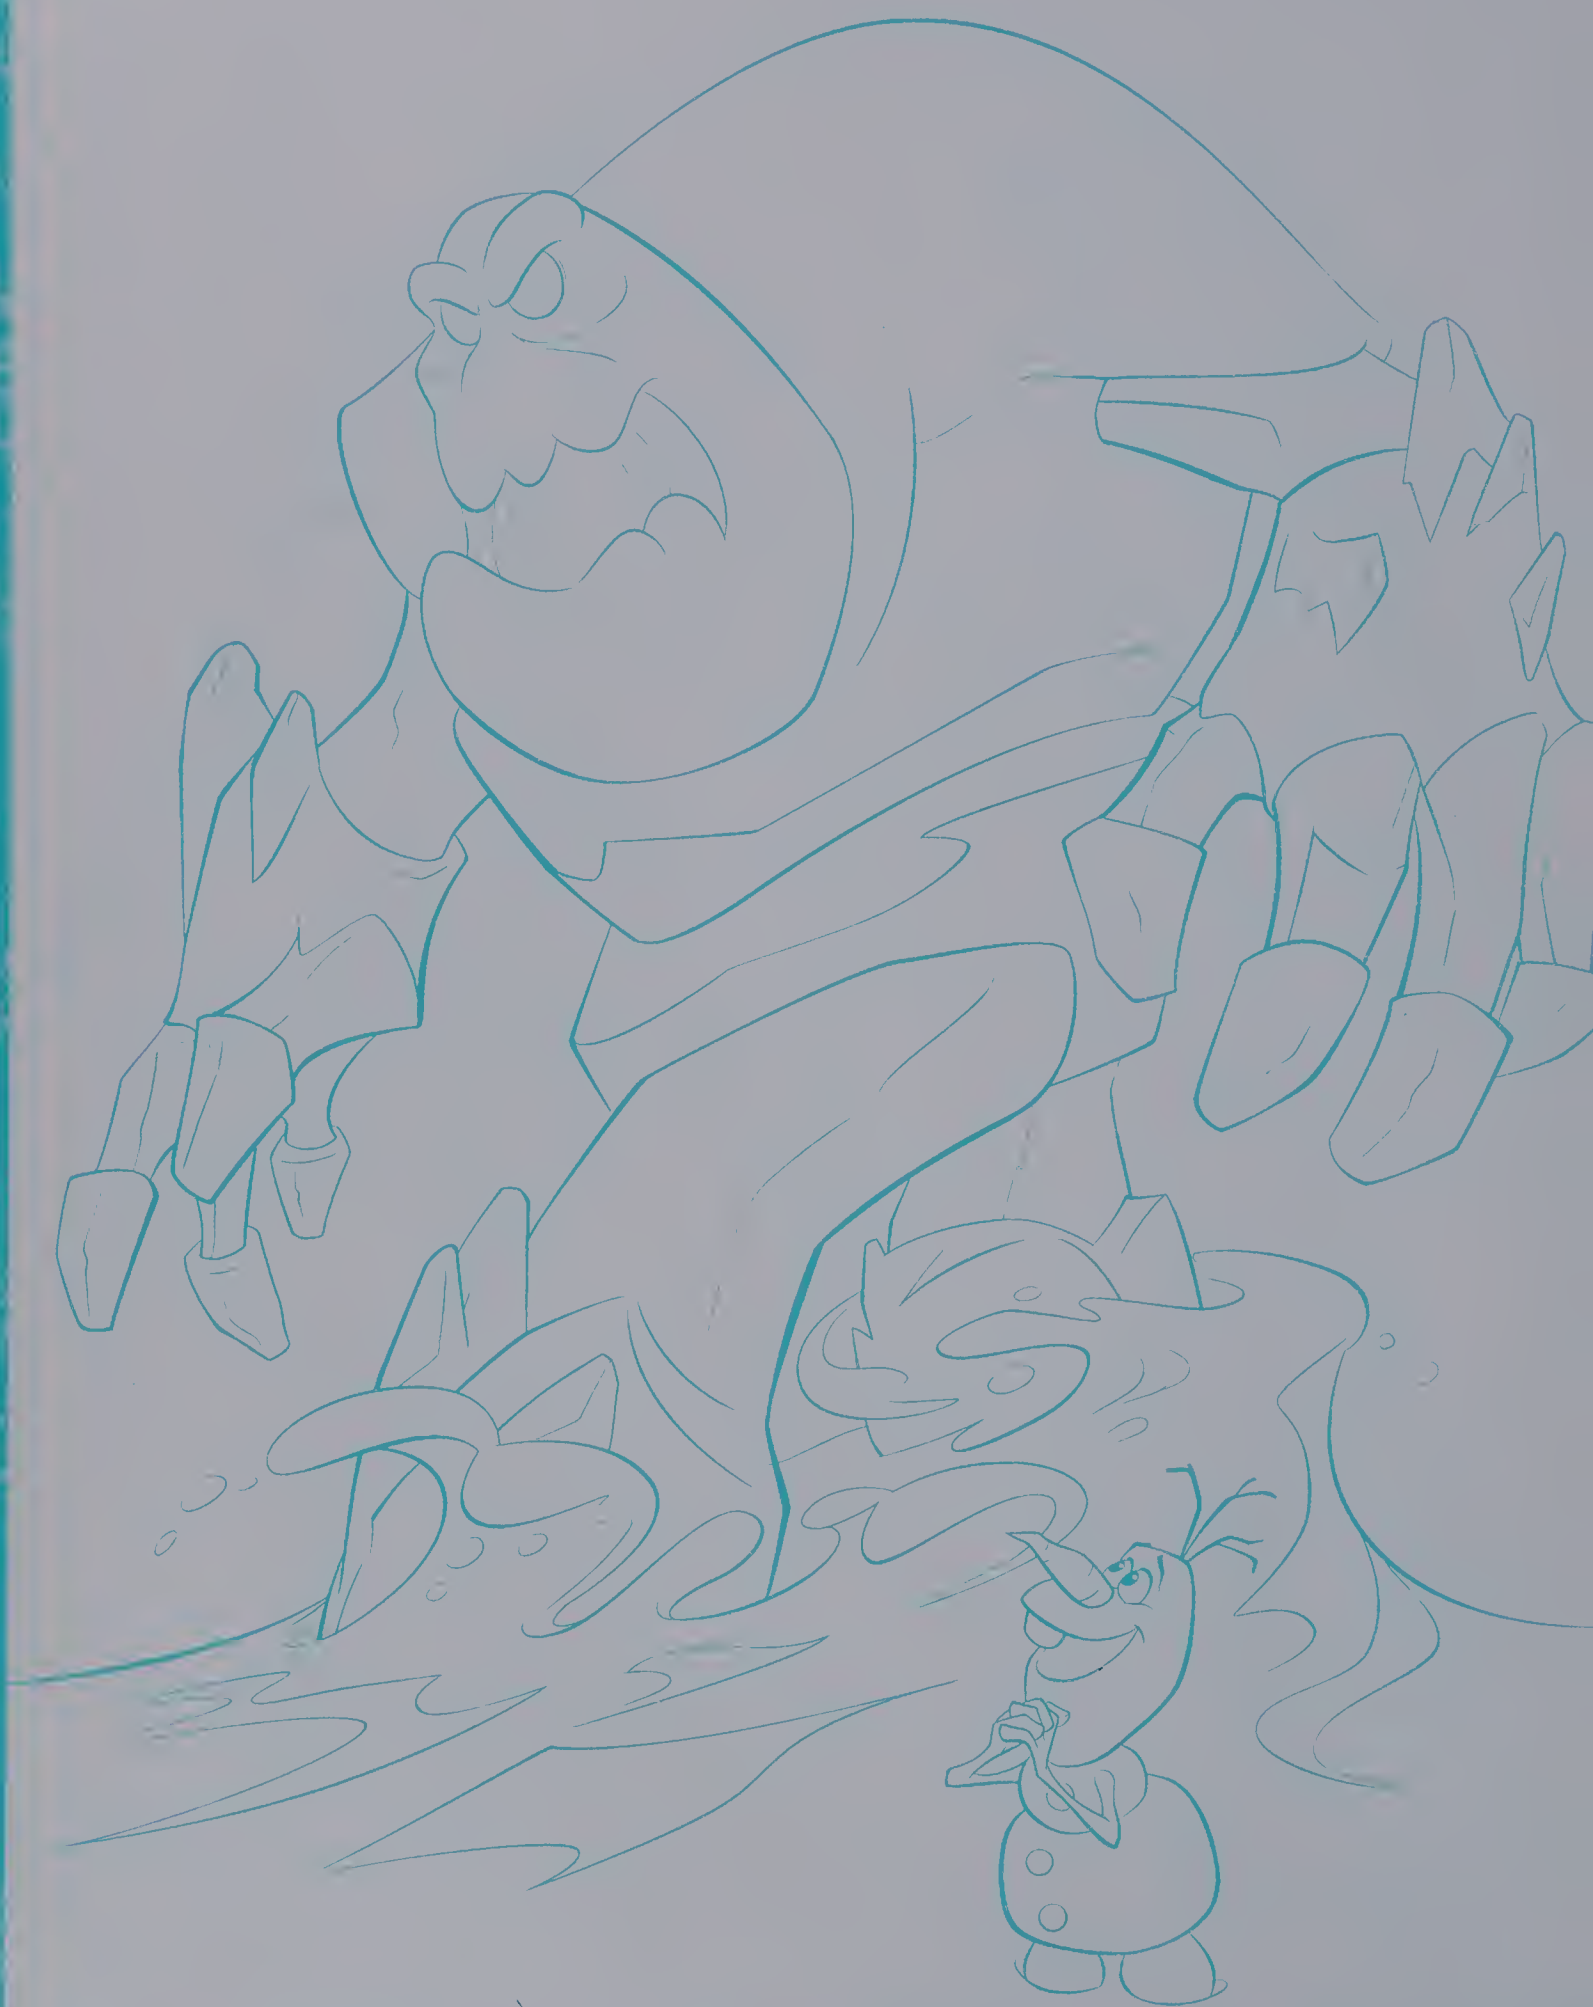

When Anna finds Elsa, she asks her sister to return to Arendelle.
But Elsa doesn't want to go back, and the sisters argue.

Elsa can't control her powers when she is upset. Although she doesn't mean to, Elsa hits Anna in the chest with a blast of ice.

Elsa then creates a giant snowman named Marshmallow!

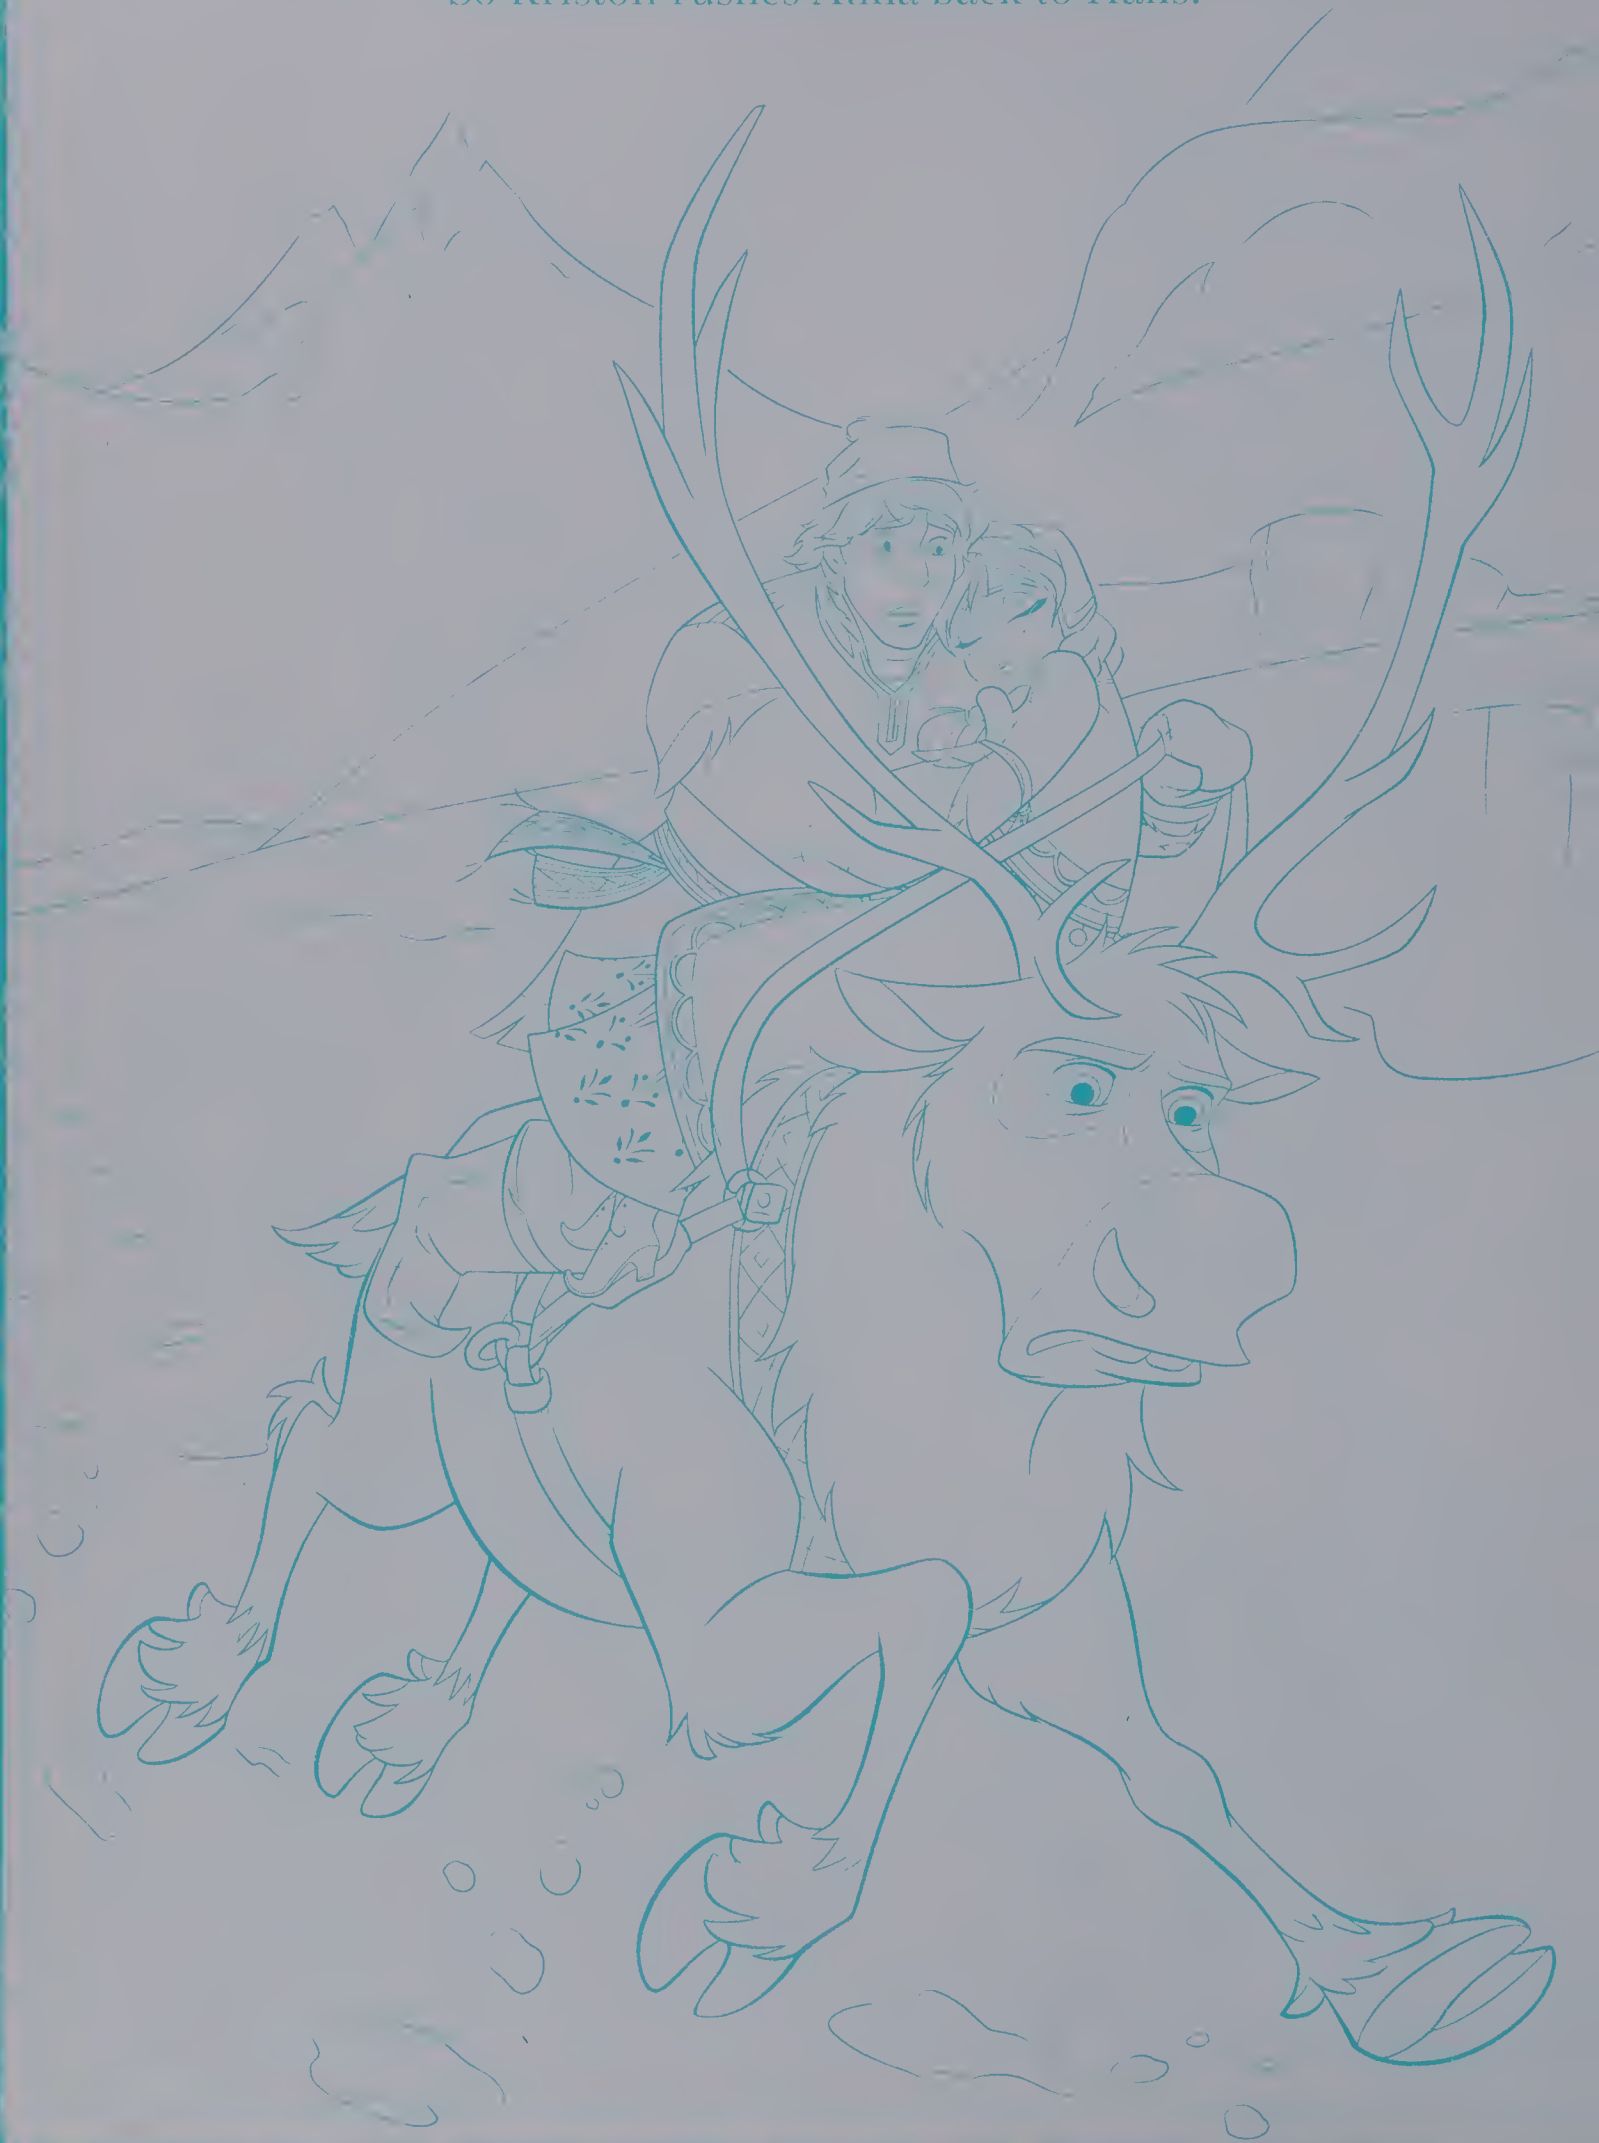

Marshmallow chases after Anna and Kristoff, who escape by running down the mountain.

Anna learns that the blast of ice from Elsa is freezing her heart, and only an act of true love — such as a kiss — can thaw it.

So Kristoff rushes Anna back to Hans.

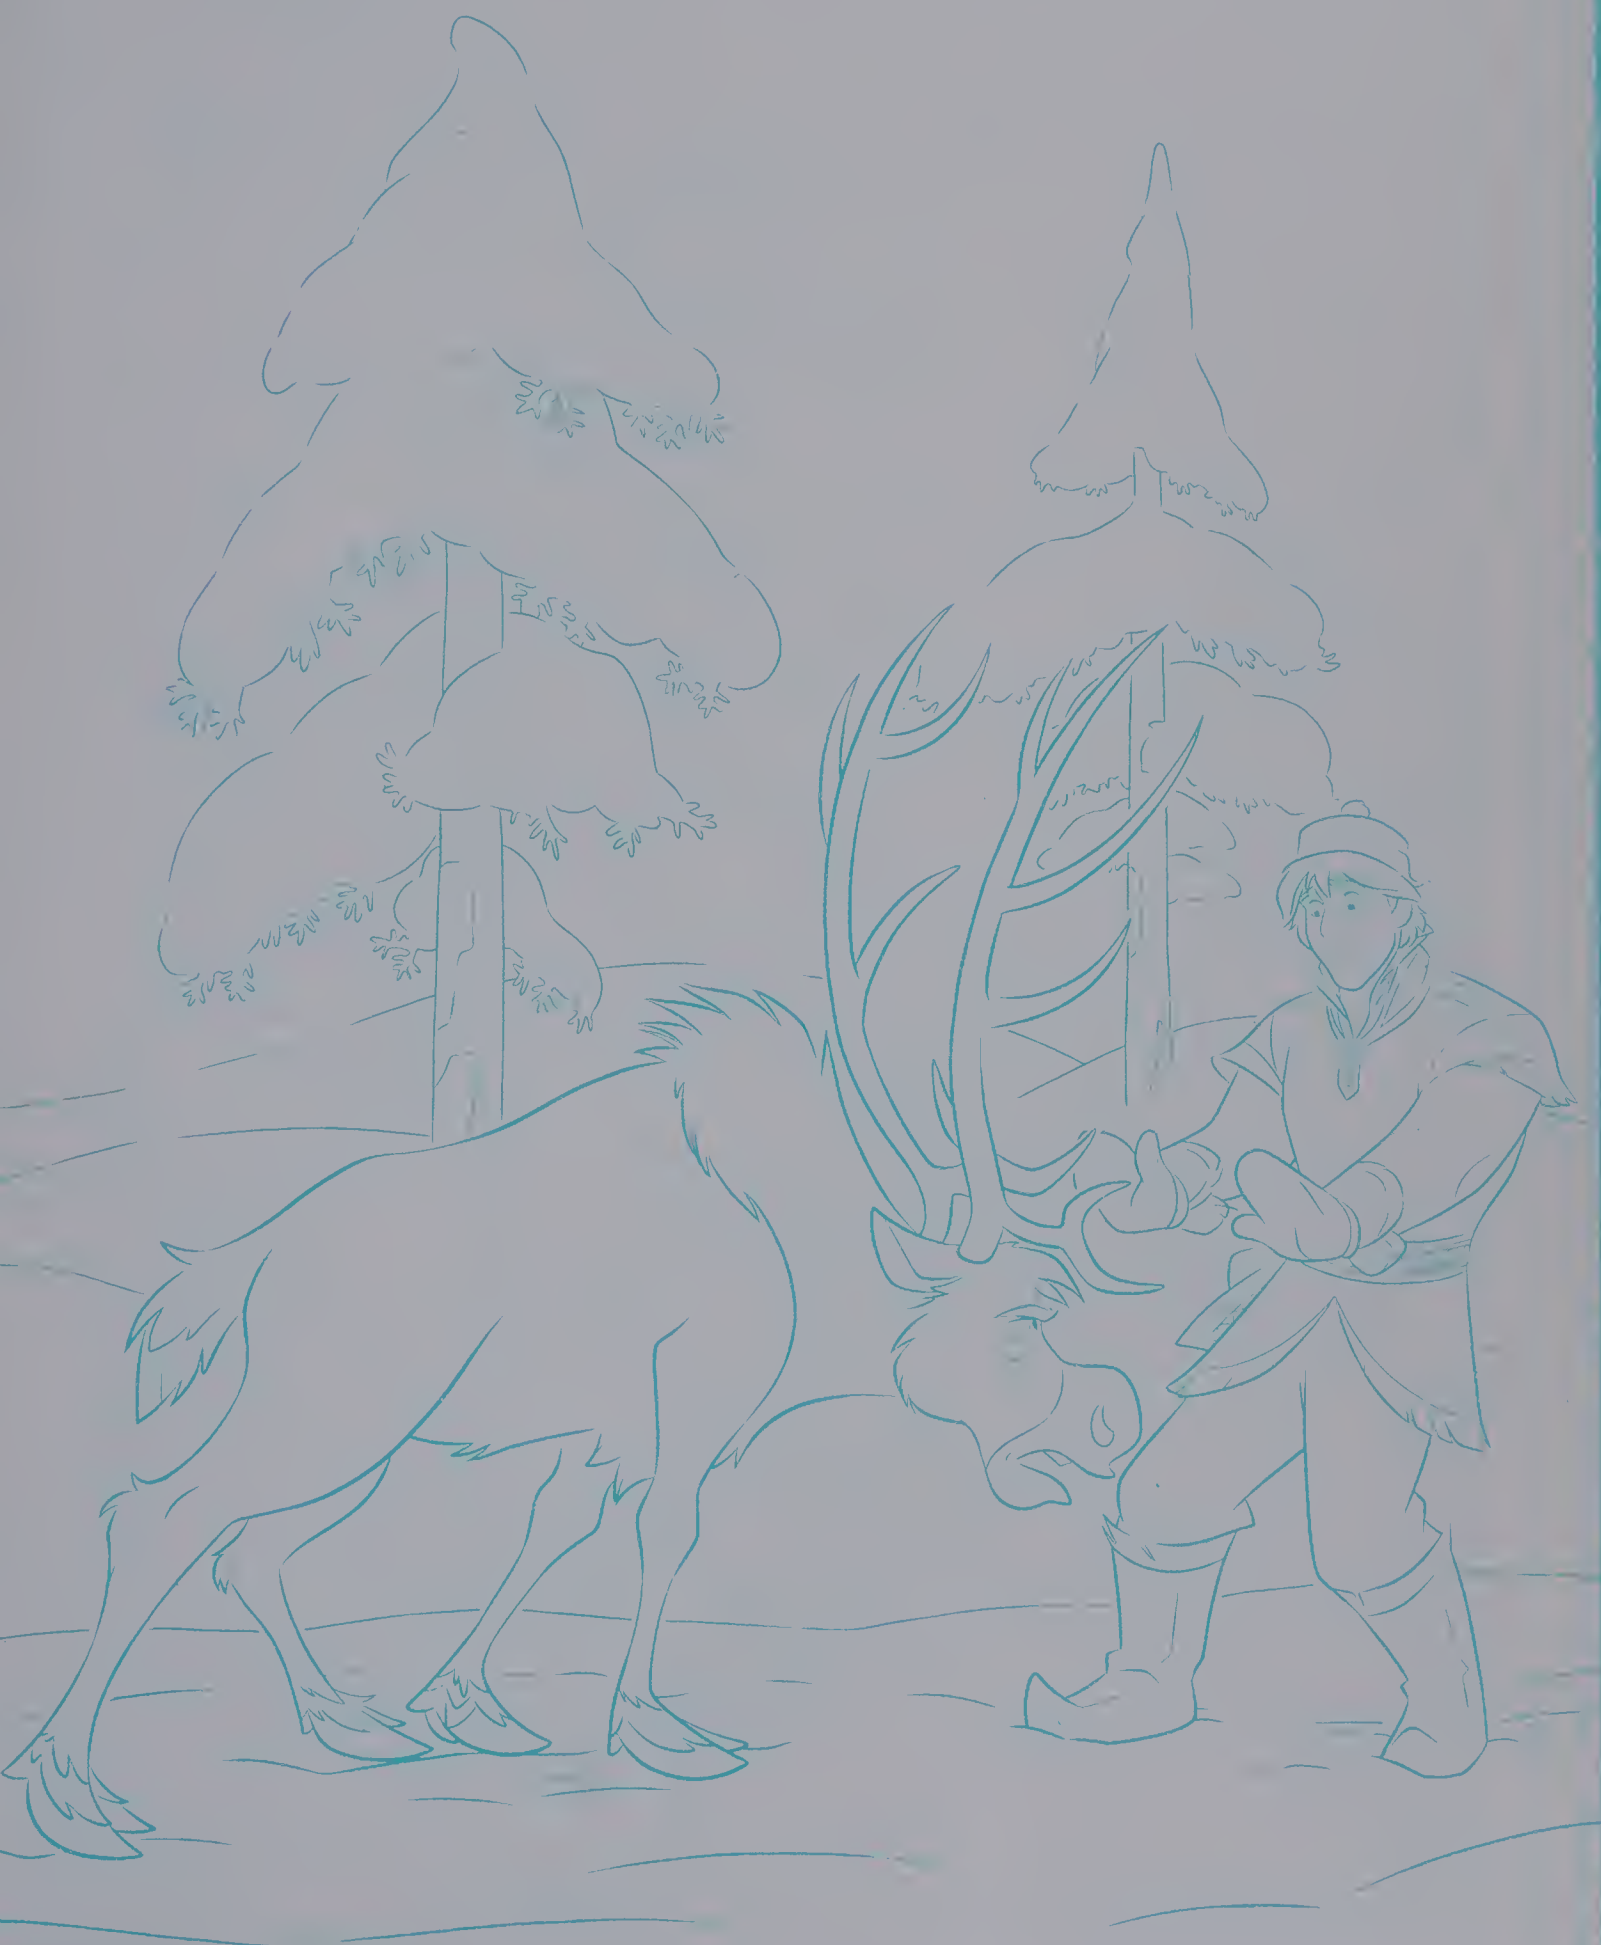

Meanwhile, Hans goes to look for Anna and arrives at the ice palace. Elsa doesn't want to return to Arendelle, but Hans takes her prisoner.

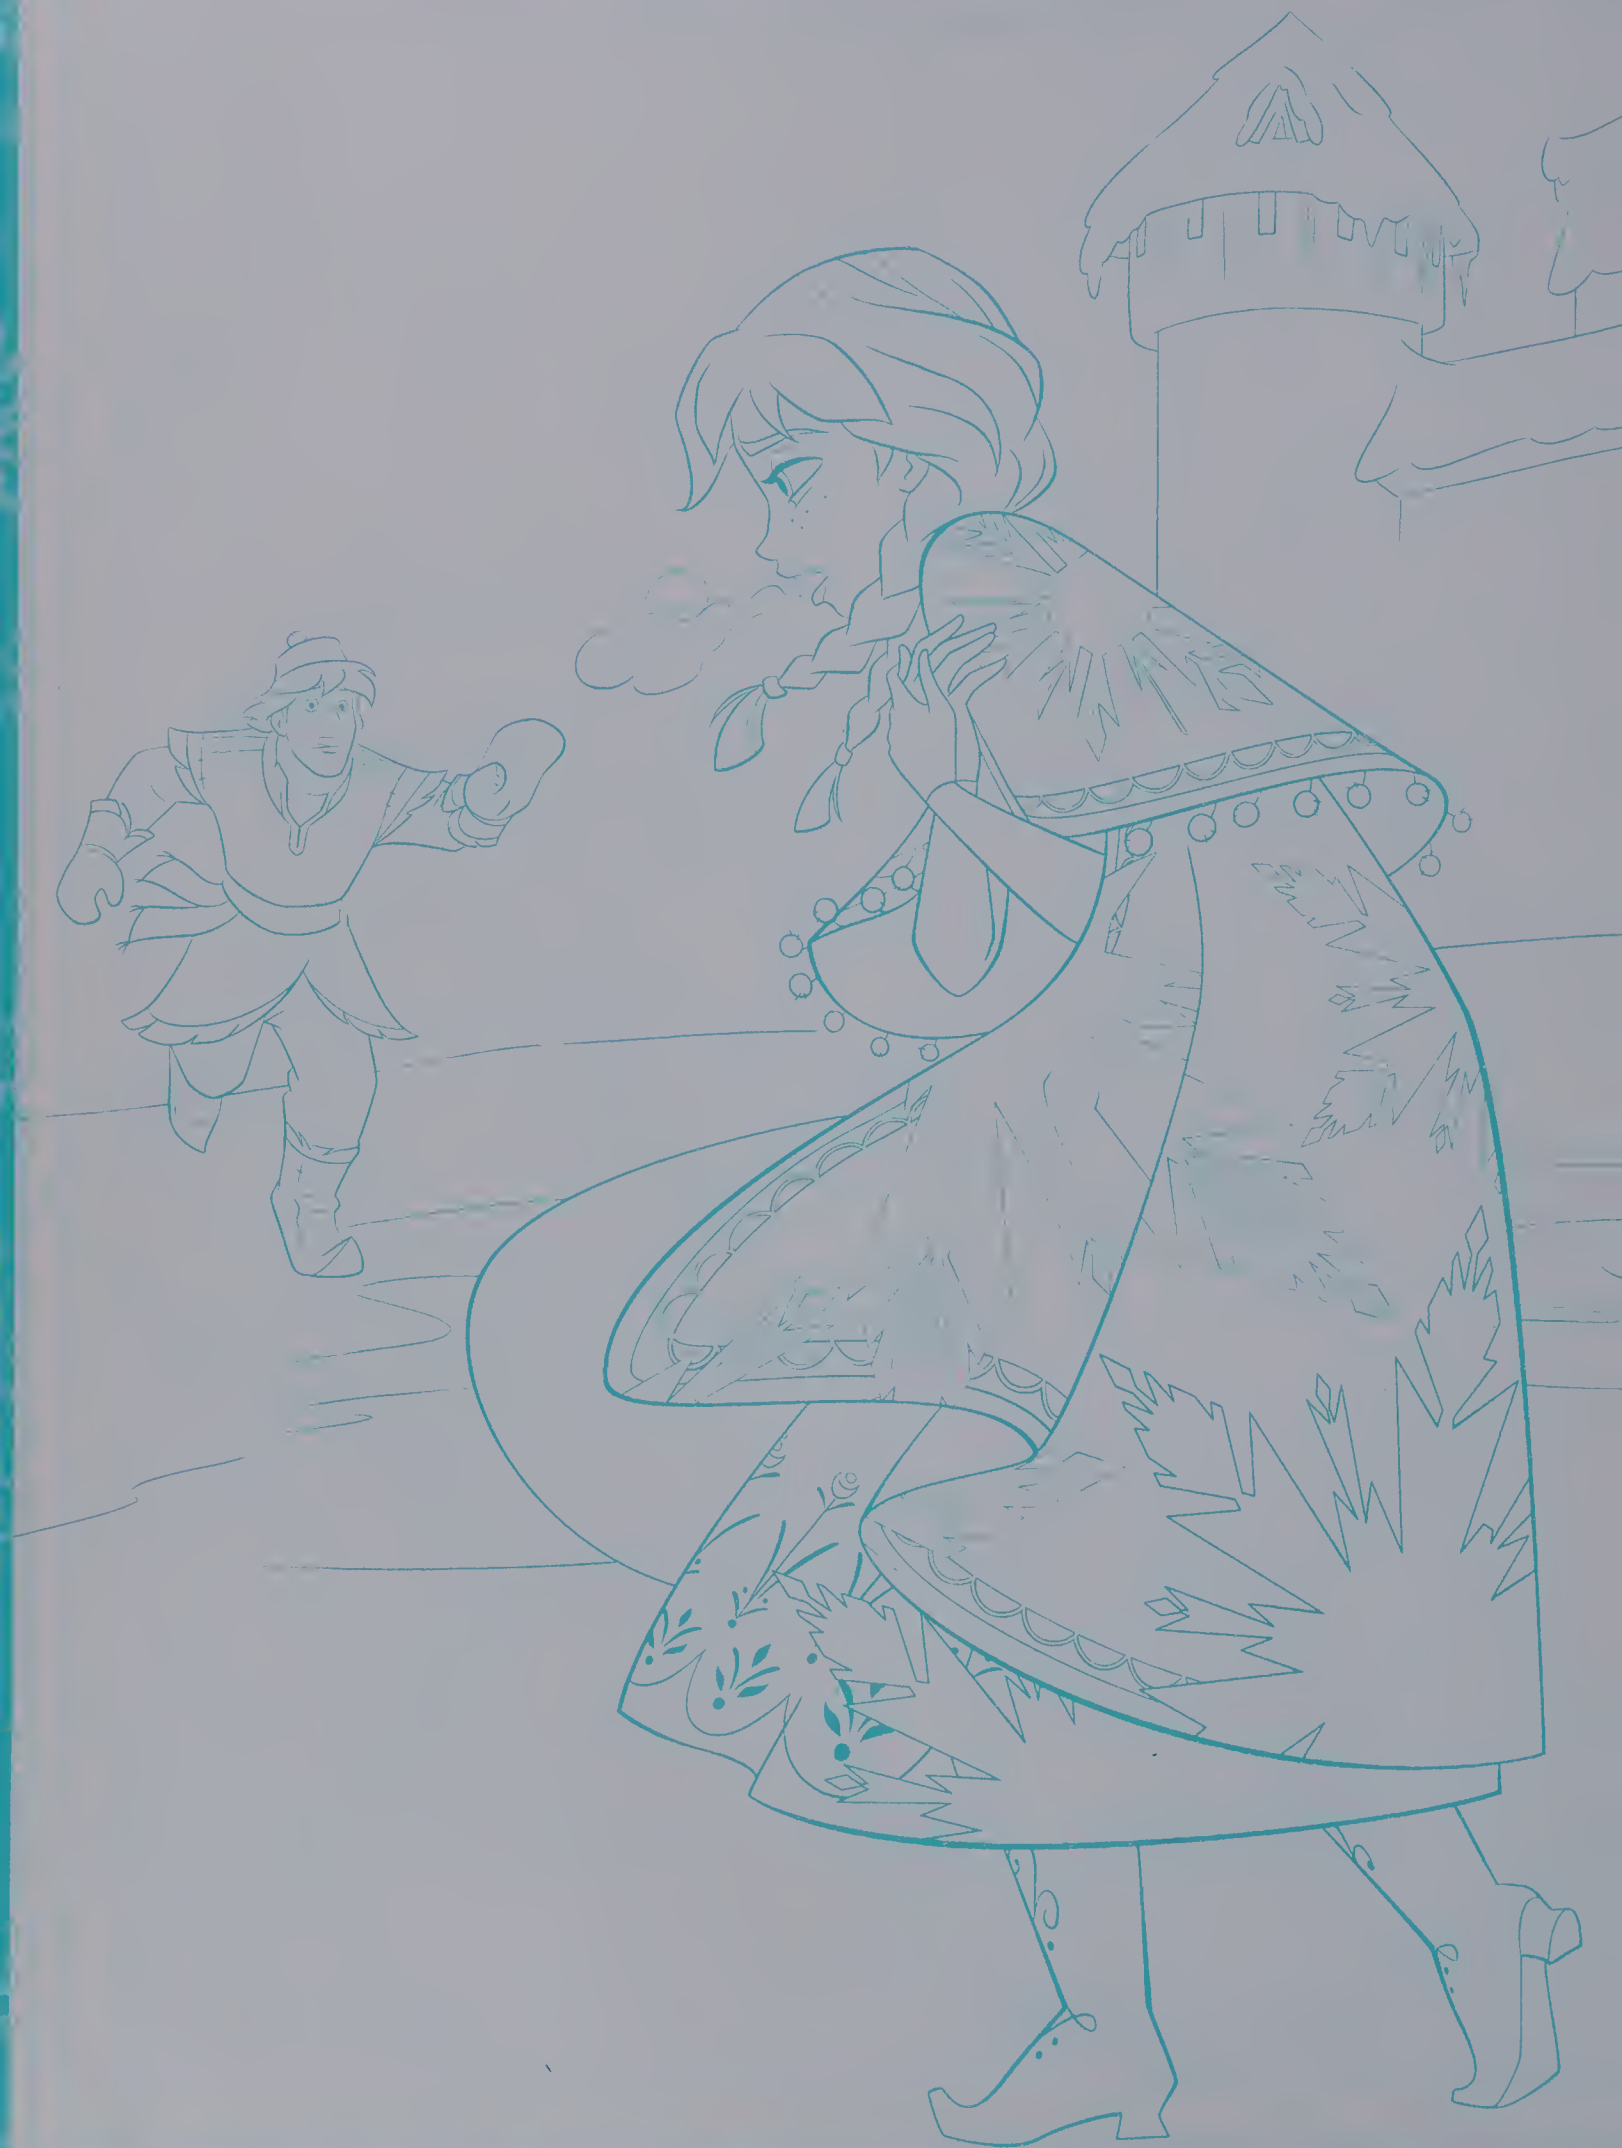

When Hans returns to Arendelle and finds Anna waiting for him, he refuses to kiss her! Hans tells Anna that he never loved her,
and then he locks her away.

After leaving Anna at the kingdom gates, Kristoff starts heading back to the mountains. But Sven tells him to return to Arendelle because he knows that Kristoff loves Anna.

Anna manages to escape from the castle, but she is slowly freezing.
Kristoff arrives and runs toward Anna—can he save her?

Anna sees Hans sneak up behind Elsa and knows her sister is in danger. Elsa needs help, but without Kristoff's kiss Anna will freeze.

Anna saves Elsa by jumping in front of her sister as Hans tries to strike her with his sword. Anna turns to ice and the sword snaps.

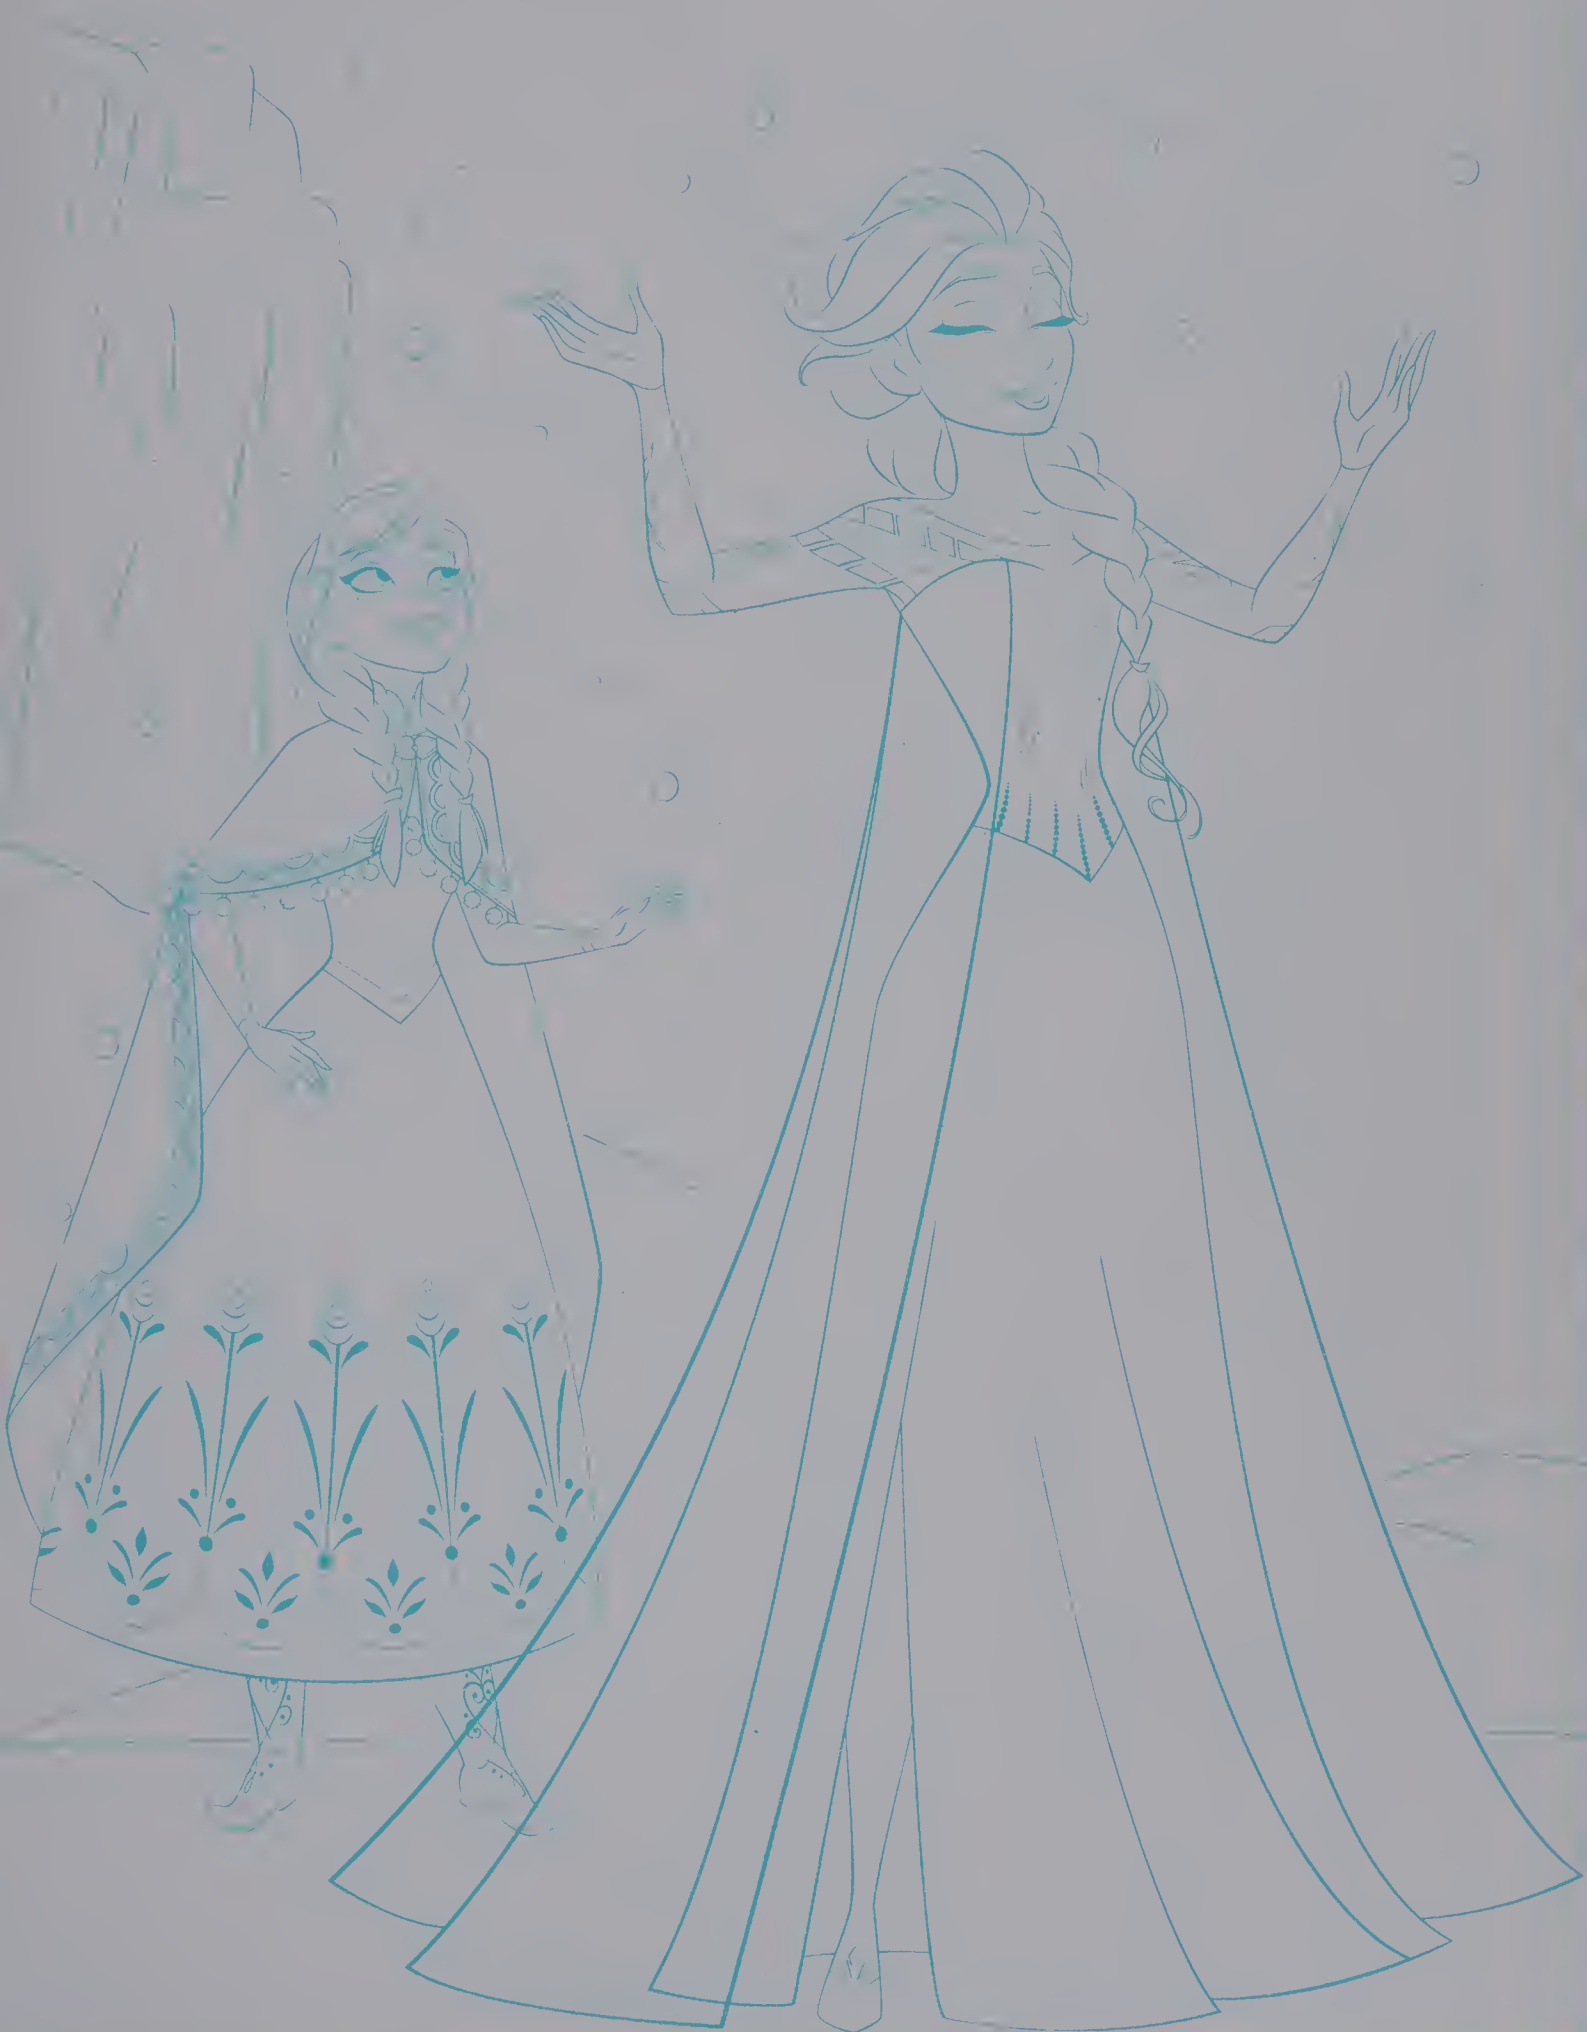

Elsa hugs her sister and cries as she realizes that Anna saved her life.

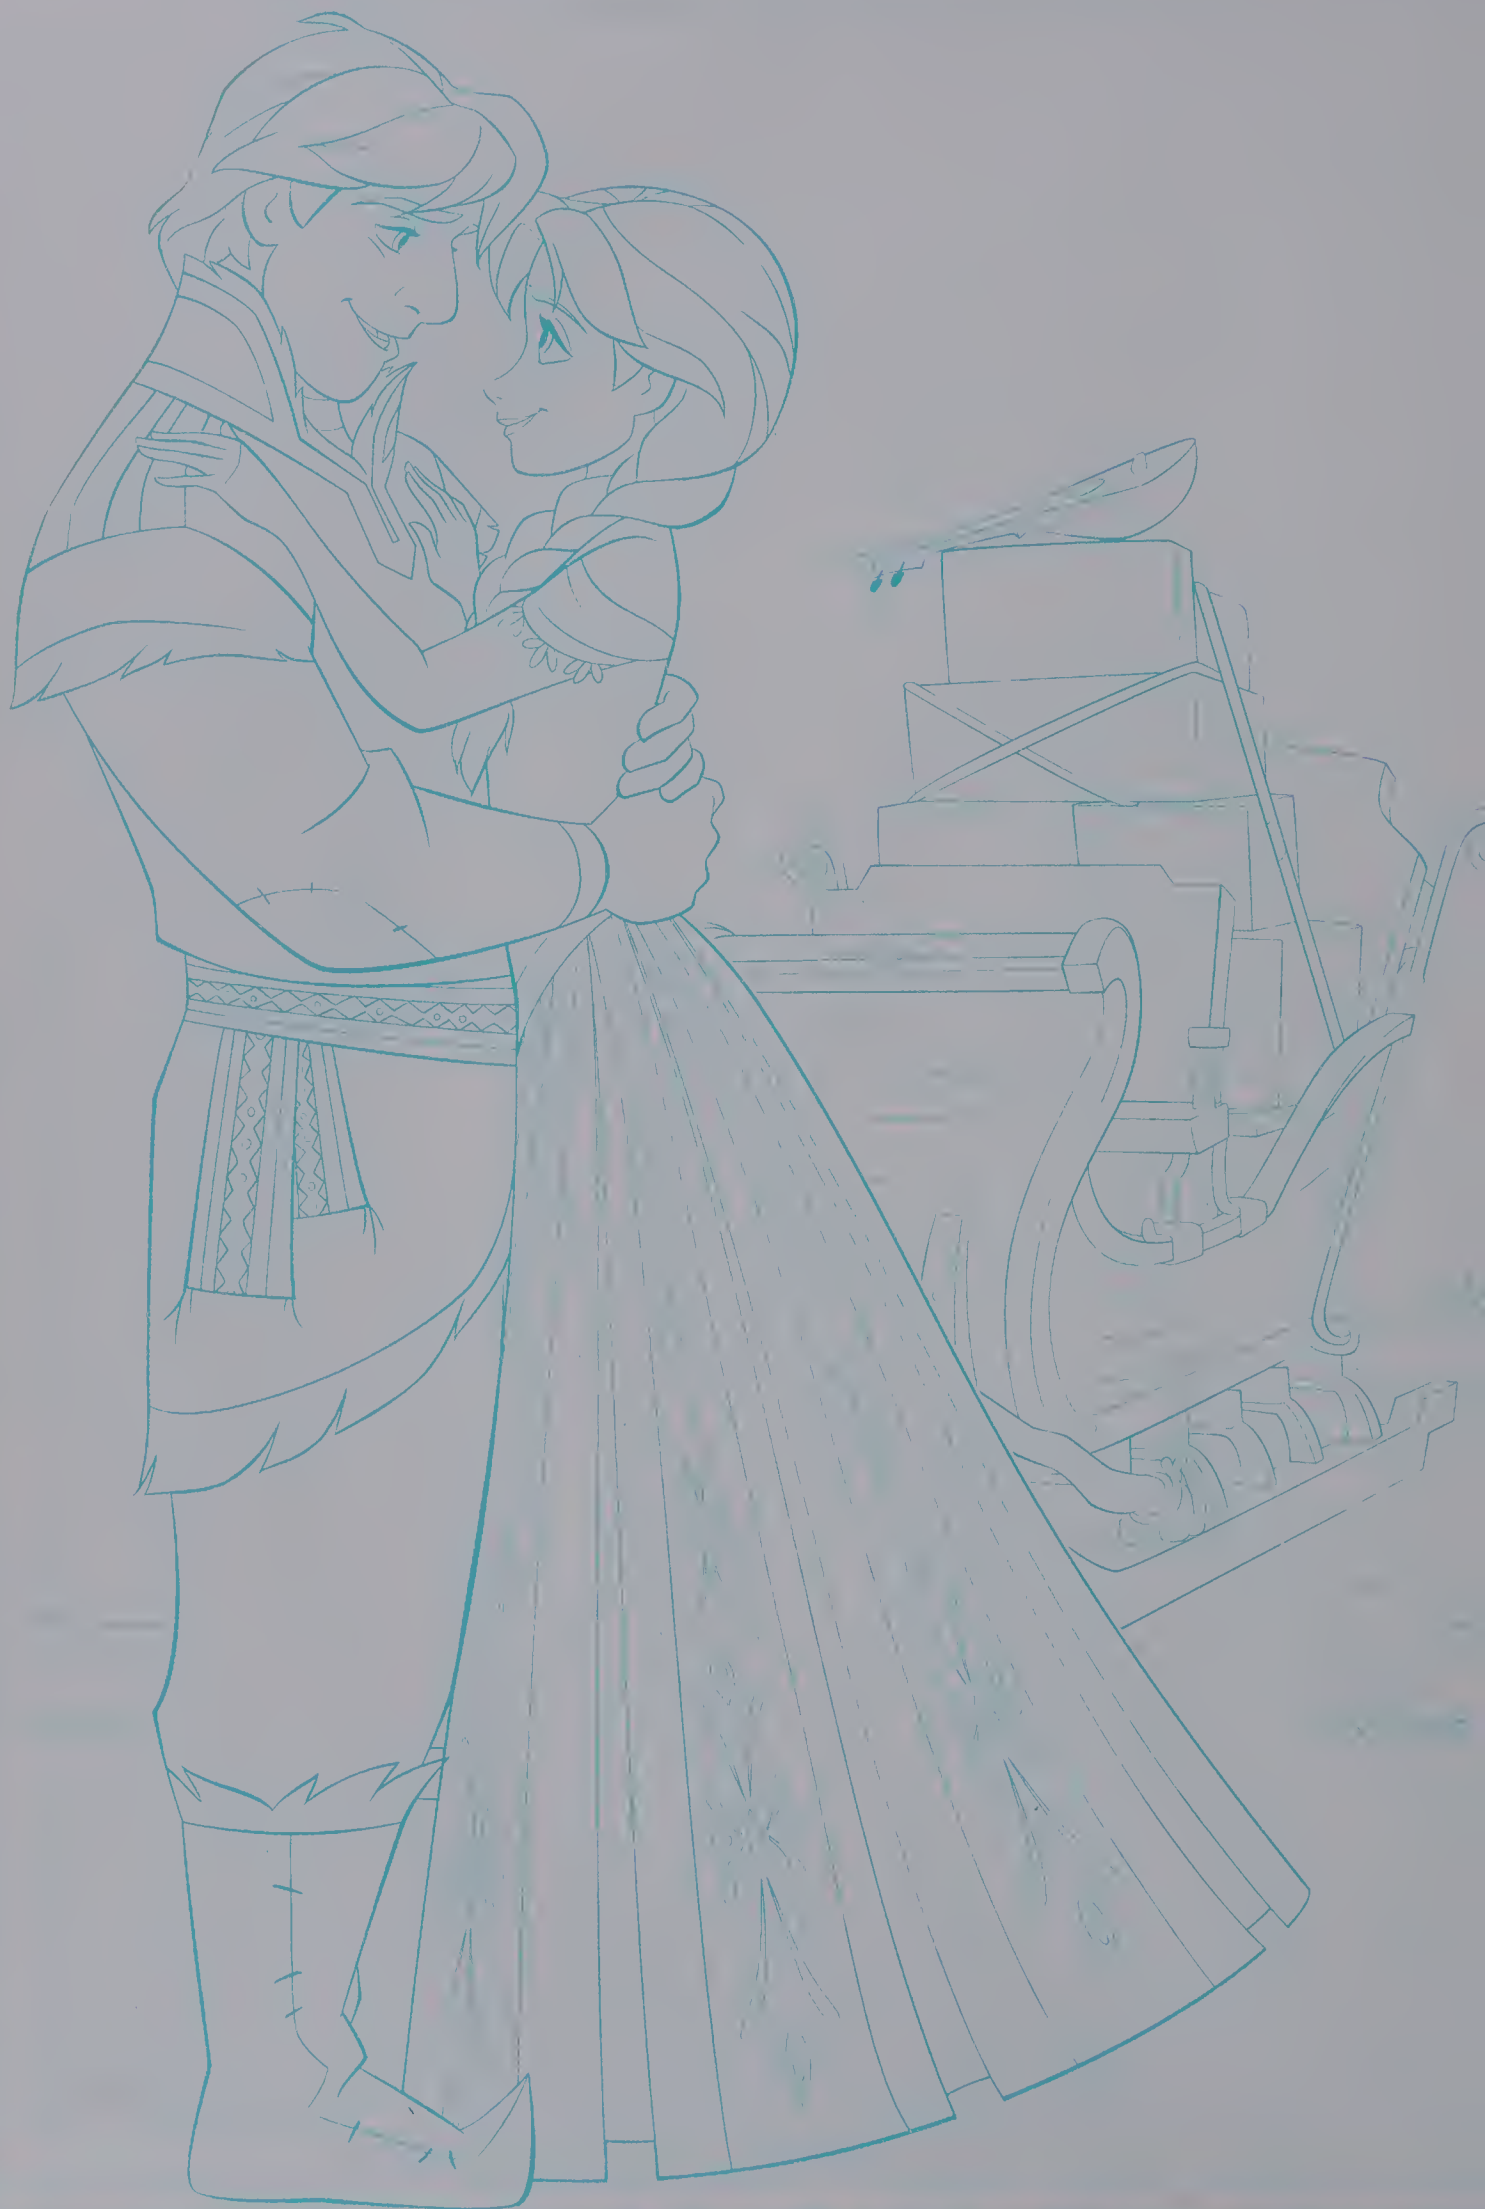

Anna's act of true love for her sister means that the spell is broken. The ice melts, and Anna is no longer frozen!

Elsa brings summer back to Arendelle. The kingdom starts to thaw and the people are happy once again!

Kristoff decides to stay in Arendelle with Anna.
